Prospects Bright

Rich Empire in Northland Is Opened Up by Highway

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—(CP)—A vast new territory in Canada's far north, a rich field for post-war development in minerals and timber, agriculture and tourist trade has been opened by the construction of the Alaska highway, Hon. Errick F. Willis, minister of public works for Manitoba, today said in an address prepared for delivery before the Canadian Club here.

Today a military road, running from Dawson Creek, 500 miles northwest of Edmonton to Fairbanks, Alaska, a distance of 1,671 miles, Mr. Willis said, the highway in peacetime will continue to strengthen relations between Canada and the United States.

"In practically every field the ideals of great peoples are identical," he said. "Anything which strengthens that relationship is of mutual value."

OPENS GREAT REGION

Mr. Willis said the highway would make Alaska and the Yukon part of Western Canada and open up a new region larger than some of the Canadian provinces.

He forecast a great tourist trade "for along the route and in Alaska there will be everything which a tourist could desire."

"The opportunity which is created places upon us grave responsibilities in the way of making sure that our highways connecting with Edmonton are capable of attracting tourist traffic. The provinces and boards of trade must use every effort in order to convince the American public of the advisability of taking the shortest route to Edmonton by passing through the prairie provinces.

Mr. Willis said the northwest territory would provide a valuable market for products produced in Canada.

REPLACES SEATTLE

He said that as far as Alaska was concerned, Edmonton would replace Seattle as the source of supply. The highway had made the Alberta capital a "boom town."

"A new area of fertile farm lands will be opened near Fort St. John, an area equal to the present farm land of the province of New Brunswick," said Mr. Willis. "This land is merely an extension of the Peace River valley."

He said the northwest region was rich in big timber, and known to contain gold, copper, tungsten, manganese, coal, oil and asphalt.

"Now we are looking forward to unfolding of a vast new territory in the northwest, latent with tremendous possibilities for those of us who live in western Canada."

Ilsley Declares:

Loan Will Seek All Spare Cash Canadians Hold

TORONTO, Oct. 12—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley said today in his first major speech of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign that until the loan's objective of $1,200,000,000 is exceeded Canadians will experience a "saturation campaign" aimed at stripping their pocket books of all but essential finances.

In an address prepared for delivery to a Toronto service club luncheon, he warned against homefront complacency because of recent successes, against believing Hitlerite propaganda which is trying to drive a wedge between Russia and the western democracies and against relaxation of the determination that has speeded Canada from an uncertain standing start in 1939 to her present strong position among the world's military powers.

HARDEST PART AHEAD

"Possibly Victory in Europe is in sight, but between us and victory lies much the hardest part of our Canadian struggle—both overseas in the battles themselves and here at home in our efforts to provide our forces and our allies with their vital requirements," he said.

He said he had felt during much of the war that Canadians have been over-confident. "first of the certainty of complete victory and more latterly of the time which it will take to achieve it." He traced the steady improvement in the war situation during the last year, but said that over-enthusiastic optimism" has been slammed back recently by revival of submarine warfare on the North Atlantic with U-boat wolf packs using "new, secret and terrible instruments of sea attack."

LONG PACIFIC WAR

Turning to the Pacific war, he said the pace of the attack in that theatre "in relation to the huge distances and great natural be proved to be overcome certainly suggests the war must last much longer in this theatre than in Europe."

Lift Restrictions On Weather News

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—(CP)—Rain in Vancouver need no longer be a secret to Toronto and likewise Canadians in the western part of the Dominion may be told by their newspapers what kind of weather the east is having—that is as far east as Montreal.

Censorship authorities today announced new regulations covering the publication of weather forecasts and reports by newspapers amending the restrictions as they apply in Canada from Montreal west.

Thus in the larger part of the Dominion if rain halts a baseball game in one city it will be possible for newspapers in other centres to say so and the destruction of a building by storm will no longer have to be submitted to censors.

Nazis, Vichy Take Strong Measures To Halt Sabotage

LONDON, Oct. 12—(AP)—The rising tide of sabotage in France has driven the Germans and their Vichy collaborators to the sternest repressive measures, including new attacks on Jews and a decree giving mobile guards permission to shoot on sight.

The situation the Vichy government is struggling to control was bluntly described by Jacques Barlaud over the Paris radio and recorded in London by Reuters news agency. Barlaud said the "Harvests are burning, railway lines are being blown sky-high and trains are derailed."

MOSCOW, Oct. 12.—The battle for Kiev is in its decisive stages, front dispatches said today, and German demolition squads are putting the torch to the city's historic buildings and touching off destructive land mines.

Triumphant Russian forces were streaming in force across the Dnieper on either side of Kiev and closing swiftly against the keystone city of the river line which the Nazis clearly despaired of holding much longer.

The whole massive struggle for the west bank of the Dnieper, the line which Adolf Hitler had ordered his armies to hold or die, approached a climax. Everywhere the Red army was swarming ahead and tightening its grip on a broad stretch beyond the river.

HEAVY NAZI LOSSES

Field dispatches reporting a sharp upsurge in German tank and plane losses—almost double those of previous days—indicated that the Nazis were reaching the peak of their resistance as the Soviet striking power beyond the Dnieper increased by the hour.

As their position on the right bank of the Dnieper deteriorated, the Germans loosed the full fury of their vandalism on Kiev, the Russians reported, in a bid to whittle down as much as possible the value of the great military

British Press Sharply Raps U.S. Criticism

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Attacks made by five United States senators on British war policy have had an unfortunate reception here that is causing major concern in British and American quarters.

It is believed likely that questions concerning the charges will be raised in the House of Commons, but it would appear that no American interest in this part of the world is in a position to offer rebuttal in the matter.

However, Prime Minister Churchill, if he feels it would clarify the situation rather than add fuel to what is basically a domestic American controversy, may issue a statement regarding some of the questions raised by the senators.

CALLED "CHILDISH"

The Daily Telegraph, typifying the tone of resentment in the British press generally, branded the expressions of the senators "childish nonsense," and demanded that the House of Commons debate the so-called disclosures.

"The gist of what leaked out,"

Report Nazis Plan to Leave Baltic States

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 12—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports reaching Sweden Saturday night said the Germans intend to evacuate the Baltic states by Oct. 31 as the invasion-jittery Nazis acknowledged that British and American bombardmadas control the skies over much of Germany and Europe and that naval supremacy in the Mediterranean permits the Allies to strike anywhere in the Balkans.

German heavy guns and troops already are being withdrawn east of Leningrad, and some evacuation of troops from the Peterhof district began last week, Finnish information said.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in a written message to the house of commons, said today that the major part of the Italian fleet totalling more than 100 warships of all categories is in Allied hands.

Among the Italian naval units shifted over to the Allied side are Italy surrendered were five of six battleships in commission and eight of 11 cruisers, Churchill said.

More than 150,000 tons of merchant ships so far have been accounted for in ports under Allied control, the written reply to a question in commons said.

"The position of the ships and crews still are under active consideration and the ships will be used to the best possible advantage of the United Nations," Churchill reported.

N. Zealand Labor Government Gains Two More Seats

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Oct. 12.—(CP)—New Zealand's Labor government has increased its parliamentary strength by two seats as completion of the official count of civilian votes and a majority of the service ballots in the Sept. 25 election gave the government 45 seats in the 80-member parliament against 34 for the National party and one Independent member. In only one riding is the position doubtful. This is Eden where the sitting Labor member has a majority of 10 over his Nationalist opponent.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 12.—Artillery of the Allied Fifth Army roared a thunderous prelude to a full-scale assault on the Volturno river line today and the British-Canadian Eighth Army to the northeast inched forward against stiff opposition.

(Radio Algiers said latest information from Allied headquarters indicated the zero hour for "the great battle to pierce the German defences covering Rome" is imminent. A Cairo broadcast said a fierce battle was in progress northwest of Capua, where Allied patrols had driven across the Volturno.)

An official spokesman said the Eighth Army has gained further ground at some points, but did not elaborate.

Guns of all calibres massed on the south bank of the Volturno sent a torrent of shells into German pillboxes and strong points across the river while the British and American ground strength for a decisive crossing.

Trans-Atlantic Air Record Set

WINNIPEG, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines announced here last night that Capt. J. Barclay made a new non-stop Montreal to Britain trans-Atlantic record of 11 hours and 36 minutes during the week-end. The previous mark was 12 hours and 26 minutes established by Capt. R. F. George, operations manager of the air lines.

Capt. Barclay, a senior pilot, was at the controls of the plane carrying Munitions Minister Howe, H. J. Symington, president of T.C.A., and J. R. Baldwin of the external affairs department.

The Canadian officials are in London to attend the empire conference on air transport.

A U.S. BOMBER STATION IN ENGLAND, Oct. 12—(AP)—Lieut. John G. Winant, Jr., 22-year-old son of the United States ambassador to Britain, was reported missing from a raid over Muenster, Germany, Sunday, and returning fliers said they saw German fighters machine-gunning the parachutes blossoming from his stricken bomber.

Winant, on his 13th mission, was piloting the "tech supply" home 15 minutes after the raid when it was attacked by three German planes. Other fliers in his group said the plane went down under a rocket-gun attack.

His first station was a Romulus, Michigan, near Detroit, but he was transferred in August, 1941, to the post of control officer at a Tennessee air field. He, later on, organized and commanded a ferrying group there and was in charge of all ferrying command activities in that area until he was assigned in May, 1943, to command of the ferrying group at Great Falls, Montana. Weather Curtails Air Blows After Eight Record Days

LONDON, Oct. 12—(CP)—British-based bombers were grounded yesterday, presumably by bad weather, after eight record-breaking days of round-the-clock aerial offensive against Hitler's European fortress. During those eight days and nights, a recapitulation showed, the Nazis lost at least 500 fighting planes—a sharp drain on their air resource because it is estimated that not more than 700 fighters a month come off German production lines.

British Used 2-Man Submarines For Attack on Battleship Tirpitz

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Frank Knox, United States navy secretary, said today that the British submarines which have immobilized the German battleship Tirpitz operated 1,000 miles from home with two-man crews.

The submarines slipped through mine fields and mazes of submarine nets to launch their torpedoes against the mighty Nazi battleship in a Norwegian hideout.

Knox, in his first press conference since his return from a 25,000-mile tour of European battle fronts, said the attack on the Tirpitz was carried out while he was in Britain and was "characterized by a high spirit of daring and courage that is amazing."

He added that the little two-man submersibles not only made their way through submarine nets guarding the harbor, but also penetrated gets hung about the big ship itself.

It was one of "the most difficult things ever attempted and was a success," he said.

Knox added: "Speaking for the American navy, I want to express highest appreciation of the courage shown by the British sailors who carried out this attack."

He said the American navy had been acquainted with British experimentation in the midget type submarines for "eight or nine months, perhaps a year."

Naval and Air Facilities In Strategic Island Group Granted to Great Britain

By WILLIAM B. DICKINSON
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Portugal has given Great Britain naval and air bases in the Azores, the strategic islands which guard the Atlantic approaches to Gibraltar and Africa, Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced today.

Britain moved quickly to take advantage of the bases which naval men say will be invaluable in the Allied war against German submarines. An authoritative source said it could be assumed that naval vessels already had reached the Azores and that men had been sent ashore.

(Premier Salazar revealed in Lisbon today that British troops already have disembarked in the Azores. He made this statement in revealing to his countrymen that Portugal has granted Britain naval and air bases in the Islands.

(In Madrid, Gen. Francisco Franco's foreign ministry announced today in connection with the Portuguese grant of anti-submarine bases in the Azores to Britain that Spain would continue to maintain vigilant neutrality.)

The arrangement between the two nations, made under a treaty signed in 1373, calls for Portugal to retain sovereignty of the islands and pledges Britain to provide equipment to the Portuguese armed forces and to "maintain Portugal's national economy."

The agreement does not affect the desire of Portugal to maintain her neutrality "on the European mainland", Churchill told Commons.

The transfer of the bases takes place immediately, Churchill said, and Britain pledges that her armed forces will be withdrawn at the end of the war.

(In Washington the state department announced that it had been informed of the British-Portuguese arrangement and that it approved).

Churchill announced the agreement to the House of Commons in a statement introduced with the assertion that it stemmed from the Portuguese-British treaty signed in 1373.

That treaty was reinforced in various forms by subsequent agreements down through the centuries. The old treaties were recognized in new pacts concluded in 1904 and 1914.

TREATY OF 1373

Churchill quoted the treaty of 1373: "In the first place we settle and covenant that there shall be from this day forward . . . true, faithful, constant, mutual and perpetual friendships, unions, alliances and needs . . . and shall assist, maintain and uphold each other mutu-

The total for the period Jan. 1 to Sept. 30, 1943 was 22,440,611 compared with 16,958,720 for the same period last year, an increase of 50 per cent.

Mr. Ferrier stated that the plan of having conductorettes on trams would be extended to the Highlands route on Tuesday. He added that the plan is working out very satisfactorily.

Six Persons Hurt Red Deer Accident

Two persons were in Red Deer hospital, while four others escaped with minor injuries, after a coupe in which they had been riding, collided with a freight train near Sylvan Lake, Friday night. The impact knocked a boxcar from the rails.

British Press Sharply Raps U.S. Criticism

said the Telegraph, "to say that the British are outwitting the Americans, depreciating American exploits, exaggerating American defects and not pulling nor intending to pull their weight. Thus the senators dig at both their bogeys —the British and the Washington administration."

As seen here the report issued by the travelling senators is based on the assumption that the United States had asked for more Middle East oil, for unlimited use of British air bases and for bases on British territory after the war and had been refused these concessions.

URGES ACTION

The press suggests that the Prime Minister might make it clear that such was not the case and urges parliamentary action to counter the burst of acrimony that has broken out at the worst possible time and might conceivably affect Allied strategy at a time when every effort is being made to come to a final grip with Germany.

It also is noted that it is likely to deepen Russian fears and suspicions regarding the possibility of achieving a workable co-operation with the United States, as well as giving ammunition to British groups which favor stronger collaboration with Russia as opposed to Churchill's stand for all-out Anglo-American amity.

In the United States it may not be generally realized that probably the biggest and most openly expressed fear in Britain is that the United States is going to go all-out for an imperialist post-war program that will take over as much British shipping and export trade as possible.

AMAZES BRITONS

For this reason, Britons are amazed to read that United States officials think Britain is up to the same game. While persons in authority in both countries regard either conception as unfounded, they are aware of the possible damage that can be done to collaboration efforts.

Propaganda quarters also fear the Germans are likely to seize on the question as an opportunity to launch a new offensive among wavering satellites and neutrals and also to embody the issue as a wedge to be driven between the United States and Britain as well as between Russian and Anglo-American interests.

ually by sea and by land against all men that may live or die."

"This engagement has lasted now for more than 600 years, and that is without parallel in world history," Churchill said.

"I have now to announce the latest application of these instruments. At the outset of the war the Portuguese government in full agreement with His Majesty's government in the United Kingdom adopted a policy of neutrality with a view to preventing the war from spreading to the Iberian Peninsula."

NOT INCONSISTENT

Subsequently, he said, Portugal frequently stated that such a policy was not inconsistent with the Portuguese-British Alliance, which was reaffirmed by Lisbon in the early days of the war.

Britain, on the basis of the ancient alliance, has now asked Portugal for "certain facilities in the Azores which will enable that better protection be provided for merchant shipping in the Atlantic."

Portugal agreed to grant the request and arrangements, effective at once, have been concluded regarding conditions governing the use of the facilities by the British and the British assistance to the Portuguese armed forces and for maintenance of the country's economy.

TEMPORARY BASIS

The agreement concerning the use of facilities in the Azores is of a temporary nature only, and in no way prejudices the maintenance of Portuguese sovereignty over Portuguese territory," Churchill said.

Hence all the British forces will be withdrawn from the Azores at the end of the war. The Portuguese desire for neutrality on the continent was not affected, Churchill said.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden negotiated the agreement," Churchill revealed, and did the job "with the very greatest skill and patience," the prime minister concluded.

On the conclusion of the negotiations, Eden and Portuguese Premier Antonio De Oliveira Salazar exchanged "most cordial" messages, in which Eden "affirmed his conviction that the facilities now granted by the Portuguese government greatly contribute to the effective defence of our shipping and thus prove an important factor in shortening the war."

FORTIFIES ALLIANCE

Salazar, in response, said he shared the hopes that the agreement would help bring about greater safety for shipping in the Atlantic, "and that he trusted this new proof of Portugal's loyalty to her traditions would fortify the secular alliance and serve to draw still closer the bonds of friendship uniting the two peoples."

Churchill observed that the Portuguese government's loyalty to the British alliance "never wavered in the darkest hours of the war."

A member of Commons asked if the Government would take the opportunity to draw the attention of Eire to the agreement. Another asked whether, if Germany should regard this as a hostile act, it would be made known that full assistance would be given to Portugal.

Churchill said he was not prepared to add anything to his statement.

left on an eastbound train the same night.

Anna Lyski, 9665 106A avenue, was knocked down by an auto driven by an employee of Aircraft Repair, she told police, as she was walking near railroad tracks at 124 street. Taken to Royal Alexandra hospital by the driver, she was found to have received bruises on the left foot and left elbow. She was not detained.

Police investigating the cause of Alexander Calder's injuries, were informed that he had been allegedly beaten by a Calder family and, upon admission to the hospital, it was found that his face was covered with blood and that he had received a broken nose.

PURSE IS FOUND

Several hours later a purse belonging to the man was found on 104 avenue, between 100 and 101 streets. The purse contained his ration book, registration card, discharge papers from the army, and a small bible.

Authorities were notified by M. Neville, 10709 95 street, that he had found William Flack about 10:15 p.m. Saturday, as the latter was sitting on the curb on 95 street. Taking him home, he had placed him in bed.

Upon investigation, police were told that the man's clothing had smelled strongly of gasoline, when picked up near 107A avenue.

Taken to Royal Alexandra hospital, the exact extent of the man's injuries could not be determined. Besides the cuts in his leg and knee, the man complained of pains in his back; he was also suffering from shock.

SLIGHTLY INJURED

Mrs. Edith Paton, 10274 99 street, received slight cuts on her forehead, late Saturday afternoon, when the auto in which she was riding, driven by Henry Lozer, 19 Rosslyn court, collided with another vehicle operated by Corp. James Tipolo, U.S. Army, at the corner of Jasper avenue and 104 street. Her injuries did not necessitate hospital attention, it was stated.

base before it falls into Red army hands.

Russian forces of all categories streamed ceaselessly over scores of river crossings, enabling the Soviet command to step up the tempo of the attacks in order to disorganize and overwhelm the loitering German resistance.

SCORCHED EARTH

Vladimir Grossman, Red Star correspondent in the sector north of Kiev, said the Germans had scorched utterly the region between Chernigov and Kiev, leaving not a single house standing in the once thriving city of Chernigov.

Peasants were reported living in holes with thin straw thatching all over the countryside. Grossman said that before the Germans abandoned the villages in the area, their tommy gunners ran through them igniting the houses with incendiary bullets.

North of Kiev between the Dnieper and Desna rivers, infantry from Siberia, the Volga and Kazakstan was advancing through heavy rain in the dense forests and black mud paddies, sometimes wading waist deep but always plodding forward.

"Forward" was the command the Soviet armies were executing all along the front from the lower Dnieper to Vitebsk, in upper White Russia.

GAIN IN NORTH

In the Gomel sector—the hinge of the entire front from the Dnieper to the Volkhov area below Leningrad—the Russians cleared the left bank of the Sosh river, capturing Novobelitza across the river from Gomel and paralyzing the communications of that main base.

On the Vitebsk front Soviet forces continuing a slow but methodical advance, pushed their left flank beyond Dobromysl, 18 miles east of the Vitebsk-Orsha railroad.

To the south, one of the biggest battles of the Dnieper was being fought southeast of Kremenchug, where the German command threw in major reserves of tanks, planes, artillery and infantry.

Tremendous aerial battles developed. Red air force strength ened by large fighter and fighter-bomber reinforcements, was reported shooting down scores of German planes each day.

Dispatches said that veterans of the battles for Belgorod, Kharkov, Poltava and Kremenchug were expanding the Kremenchug bridgehead, repeatedly breaking German counter-attacks.

Against Rigors of Arctic Winter

The modern airplane won another triumph against the long Arctic winter recently when C.P. Air Lines planes flew several Hudson's Bay Company employees to Edmonton from the remote post of Tuktoyaktuk on the Arctic coast 35 miles east of Aklavik.

The far northern winter was closing in and the Hudson's Bay Co. employees, 15 in number, had missed the last boat of the season south out of Aklavik.

The men faced a bleak winter in the Arctic

Making a special charter trip, two float-equipped planes, piloted by Sam McRae and J. Stevenson of C.P. Air Lines, went to the remote post and returned to Fort McMurray with the party.

It was possibly about the very last minute that a float machine could land or take off along the coast for this season.

C.P. Air Lines planes have also brought to Edmonton crew and passengers aboard the Hudson's Bay Co river boat S.S. MacKenzie that ran aground at Good Hope on her last scheduled trip south from Aklavik.

Local Airman Gives Germans Knockout Blow

When the R.C.A.F. Bomber Group combined with the R.A.F. to administer a knockout blow to the railway marshalling yards on the French-Italian frontier recently, enemy opposition was nowhere in sight. The Luftwaffe apparently had urgent business elsewhere.

Most interesting adventure of the night according to R.C.A.F. authorities was that reported by a 19-year-old flying officer from this city who teamed up with another Edmonton-ian to drive off, and possibly damage, one of the few night fighters which took the air that evening. This was an Italian Macchi 200, probably flown by a German pilot.

"We had dropped our bombs on the target, which was Modane, and were on our way home," relates P.O. Jack Allan whose home is at 10525 126 street. "About three minutes from the target, Pilot Officer, Sgt. Bob Sheiden, reported an enemy aircraft approaching from astern. He was about 800 yards away when first sighted. From the mid-upper, Sgt. Heyword, also reported him.

"The reargunner opened fire at 500 yards and gave him a fairly long burst—three or four seconds—and saw his tracers going right into the fighter, I saw him go as he broke to port and disappeared. It was a Macchi, all right, we are positive on that." Crew members and the skipper in particular believe that hits were definitely scored on the Macchi.

THIRD TRIP

It was P.O. Allan's third trip and he has the distinction of being the youngest officer of the Bluenose Squadron. He earned his wings and his commission at No. 11 S.F.T.S., Yorkton, Sask., when he was 18 and proceeded overseas, doing a five-month tour on Mitchells before being assigned to a heavy bomber squadron.

He and the tailgunner, Sgt. Bob Sinclair, also of Edmonton, are the only Canadian members of the crew. The Modane raid was their third operational trip, the others being Nuremburg and Mannheim, both "hot" targets. Fair-haired and quiet spoken, F.O. Allan admits that his sport and diversion is rather marked contrast to his work with an Edmonton wholesale grocery firm in pre-enlistment days. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Allan, live in Edmonton.

Thanksgiving Day Service Is Held

The Thanksgiving Day service held by the Christian Science church on Monday was an inspiring occasion. The service opened with the singing of hymn number 342, "This is the day the Lord hath made." A Scriptural selection was then read by the First Reader from I Chron. 16, followed by silent prayer and the audible repetition of the Lord's Prayer with the spiritual interpretation from the Christian Science textbook, after which the congregation sang hymn number 130, "In mercy in goodness how great is our King."

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon was "Thanksgiving—and the Golden Text was Psalms 116:12, 17. The Responsive Reading, read alternately by the first reader and the congregation, was from Psalms 146:1, 2, 5, 6, 11-13; 149:1, 2, 4; 150:6. One of the Scriptural passages contained in the Lesson-Sermon was from John 14:15, "If ye love me, keep my commandments." One of the correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, was from p. 23: "Implicit faith in the Teacher and all the emotional love we can bestow on him, will never alone make us imitators of him. We must go and do likewise, else we are not improving the great blessings which our Master worked and suffered to bestow upon us."

After the singing of the solo, "Thank God For Blessings," by Warrick, testimonies appropriate for the occasion were given by Christian Scientists. The concluding hymn was 374, "We Thank Thee and We Bless Thee."

The First Reader then read the Scientific Statement of Being from Science nad Health, and the correlative Scripture according to I John 3:1-3. The service closed with the benediction from Rev. 7:12.

Strike in Norwegian Fjord

British Midget Subs Cripple Germany's Battleship Tirpitz

LONDON, Oct. 12—(CP)—British midget submarines, penetrating the heavily-guarded Norwegian redoubt of the German fleet, have crippled the mighty battleship Tirpitz and left her apparently immobilized.

Three of the small subs—a hitherto undisclosed British weapon—are missing. A group or the submersibles, 1,000 miles from home, threaded their way some 50 miles into narrow Alten Fjord, through mine fields and heavy patrols, to attack the Tirpitz Sept. 22, an admiralty announcement disclosed yesterday. They attacked the Tirpitz beneath her waterline.

The size of the raiding force was not disclosed but the announcement said three submarines had failed to return and there was a possibility some of their crews had been captured by the Germans.

DAMAGE UNCERTAIN

The admiralty said it is was impossible to assay the damage at the time of the attack, but reconnaissance photographs taken three weeks later showed the 35,000-ton pride of the Nazi fleet had not moved from her anchorage and oil supplying from her great tanks had spread for two miles.

Details on the size and complement of the little craft were not announced. Jane's authoritative "Fighting Ships" shows British class "H" training submarines of 410 to 500 tons with a complement of 22, but presumably the midgets are much smaller.

The announcement stressed that to reach the hiding place of the Nazi warships the submarines were forced to operate more than 1,000 miles from the nearest British base.

Two days after the attack, the manding officer at No. 3 Edmonton "M" depot will be in command of the military units in the parade.

John Michaels is parade marshal and will be assisted by Frank Drayton.

Non-military organizations participating include Boy Scouts, Girl Guides, the G.I.T. and Legion of Frontiersmen.

Set Opening of Victory Loan As 'Ladies' Day'

Never in history have so many Canadian women possessed incomes of their own. Never before have so many Canadian women performed so many functions formerly performed by men only. And never before have Canadian women enrolled in thousands in the fighting services of Canada.

For these reasons officials of North Alberta headquarters of the 5th Victory Loan campaign have decided to make the opening day of the campaign on Monday, Oct. 18, "Ladies' Day."

At meetings being held Tuesday, details of the part to be played by women's organizations will be worked out.

It is certain that accommodations for the actual sale of bonds will be made at the intersection of 101 street and Jasper avenue.

As in the case of the last campaign there will be draws for a dozen free victory bonds, donated by Edmonton business men to six women and an equal number of servicemen partners. The bonds will be of $50 denominations.

The plan this year is to encourage women to make their own purchases of bonds, independently of their husbands.

Campaign officials point out there must be a marked "sell-up" if the increased quota is to be met this year.

PLAN PARADE

In the meantime plans for the huge parade on the evening of Oct. 18 are going ahead steadily.

Every branch of the service, the navy, the army and the air force, will be represented. United States military units stationed in Edmonton are cooperating 100 per cent and will be represented in the parade both by marching men and equipment.

Then there will be numerous colored floats from Edmonton war and industrial plants.

The parade route will be brilliantly illuminated with spotlights, colored street lights, flares and fireworks.

The fireworks promise to be really something this year with a "Victory Loan" piece, 40 feet high and several feet wide at the end of the parade route.

Large Increase In Beekeepers Over Last Year

Tremendous increase in number of beekeepers in Alberta in 1943 was reported Tuesday by W. G. LeMaistre, provincial apiarist, who said 8,000 persons are keeping bees this year, compared to 4,000 in 1942.

All beekeepers are required to register annually with the agriculture branch, department of agriculture, Edmonton, and registration notices have been sent out to all persons known to be beekeepers.

Mr. LeMaistre pointed out that special sugar permits provided beekeepers for bee feed will not be issued to unregistered keepers, and suggested that anyone who has not received a registration form should apply at once.

Alberta beekeepers' convention is to be held in Calgary on Dec. 3 this year, it was announced. A member of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board will be present at the meetings, and will outline rationing regulations and assist in honey price discussions. All those interested in keeping bees are invited to attend the convention.

Germans announced officially that a thrust by midget submarines had been repulsed and that prisoners had been taken.

MENACE TO SHIPPING

The 15-inch guns of the Tirpitz had been a menace to Allied North Atlantic shipping since February of 1942 and for the last several months she had been closely guarded in the snug fjord waters some 200 miles north of the Arctic Circle.

The raid, coupled with the home fleet's invasion of fjord waters near Bodoe on Oct. 4 when American carrier-borne planes hit German shipping, was viewed here as signs of a new Allied naval-air aggressiveness as part of possible efforts to drive the invasion fleet from Norway as a preliminary to a wholesale invasion of Europe.

Air Power

by

Maj. Alexander P. de Seversky

A number of Allied sources have acknowledged recently that our air attack on Germany is running into ever more vigorous fighter plane resistance. Mr. Churchill even described one of the new weapons, a kind of aerial rocket torpedo, being used against us.

It is known that the new Messerschmitt fighter (109-G) carries greater fire power than earlier models. German combat aircraft are being more and more equipped with 20 and 23 mm. cannon. This enables them to stay out of the range of the 50 calibre machine guns carried by our bombers, and to fire at us from a safe distance.

deSeversky

Such facts raise again the whole vital question of performance factors in our aviation, as against sheer numbers. Precisely because ours is a nation devoted to mass production, there is always the temptation to rely on quantity to the detriment of quality—a policy which, in air war, would prove disastrous.

Recently the President in his message to Congress had this to say:

"We must remember that in any great air attack the British and Americans lose a fairly high proportion of planes, and these losses must be made up quickly, so that the weight of bombing shall not decrease for a day in the future. In fact, a high rate of increase must be maintained according to plan and that means constant stepping up of our production at home here."

The President has on previous occasions mentioned the importance of military fighting attributes in aircraft. All the same it is a pity he did not make this explicit and emphatic at this time. Airmen are always alarmed when quantity is stressed and performance is soft-pedalled. And with good reason. We know that air power strategy can be discredited if we fail to keep way out front in the matter of performance leadership. Whenever we attempt to meet a challenge in the air by outbuilding the enemy, we only increase our losses without bringing a decision nearer. We must also out-think the enemy, maintaining a tactical superiority over his equipment.

NAZI THINKING DISTORTED

Germany's national thinking on air power was distorted by its experience in the Battle of Britain. That failure tended to discredit air strategy in Nazi minds, and they have been paying dearly for the mistake ever since. They lost faith in strategic bombardment as such, when the fault was with their equipment and their tactics in its employment.

We should guard against air power being discredited in a similar fashion in our own country, which is exactly what may happen if our air offensive is stymied by disproportionate losses. If modern war were only a contest in building we could probably win hands down. But it is also a contest in ingenuity. The research laboratory is as crucial for the final outcome as the assembly belt, and this is especially true in the sphere of aeronautics.

General Knudsen, when he headed up our production, once said that we must defeat the enemy with the weight of our equipment. As a specialist in mass output it was quite natural that he should think in those terms. But weight of equipment is only half the story. We cannot hope to win by merely turning the crank of production. The sooner we stop thinking in terms of abundance and begin to keep the factors of combat superiority in the forefront, the better.

NEED BETTER PLANES

The answer to German improvement in defensive fighter aircraft is not just more bombers, but better bombers, to close the tactical gap that has been created by Nazi innovations.

Our Flying Fortress has been improved again and again, but it is, after all, an eight-year-old design and the limits of its refinement have been reached. It has had its face lifted, so to speak, again and again, until little more in the way of higher performance can be squeezed out of it.

New bombers about twice the size of the Flying Fortress have been announced and may be in action in the near future. But it is certainly not enough to bring out an advanced type every six or eight years. The change has been long overdue and by the time the bigger bombers are in full production they may not be advanced enough to close the tactical gap. We need to think way ahead, and go in boldly for the most effective equipment allowed by aeronautical progress.

TWO ARE COMPLEMENTARY

In the years before the war and for some time after it started, forward-looking aviation people were discouraged as a matter of military policy from thinking in terms of strategy. They were told that such things were outside their competence; and that the airplane is a tactical gadget and should be developed only as such.

The result was that they were unable to translate strategic ideas into appropriate aircraft. Strategy and weapons are complementary. Our national delay in utilizing the full potential of aviation science can be traced in the first place to that situation. Some of the conditions which caused the delay are yielding to the impact of events, but much too slowly.

It is useful therefore to add a plea for the highest possible military performance to the President's emphasis on stepping up production. In the highly technological duel in which we are engaged, the most dangerous attitude is the one so often expressed in high military circles; namely, that we must fight with the weapons we've got and not "waste energy on "tomorrow's weapons."

Important Isle Claimed Taken By Yugoslavs

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(CP)—The Yugoslav liberation army claimed last night the capture of the important island of Cherso, which commands the entrance to the Gulf of Fiume, and said it controlled the whole coast of northern Dalmatia except for the German-occupied fort at Zara.

The 30-mile-long and eight-mile-wide island of Cherso is 25 miles east of the Italian naval base of Pola at the head of the Istrian peninsula and 20 miles south of Fiume which the partisan forces of Gen. Drug Tito say they have under direct attack.

Capture of Cherso was announced in a communique broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio.

In addition to holding their northern Dalmatian coast, the Yugoslav patriots said, they had occupied all of the myriad islands along the coast.

NAZIS FALL BACK

The partisans said the Germans were falling back in the Susak area, just across the bridge from Fiume.

Other fresh successes announced by the patriots as their forces were engaged in widespread operations along the whole northeastern arc around the shores of the Adriatic and along railway lines leading from the coast to German supply bases and railroad junctions in the interior, were the capture of Bjeljina, 75 miles south of Vinkovci and about the same distance west of the former capital at Belgrade, the town of Kamnica near Brecica in Slovenia and the Slavonian town of Cacen on the Zagreb-Vinkoci railway.

The taking of Bjeljina was especially important for its command of the plains approaching Belgrade.

The R.C.A.F.'s new operational wing (top) which will be awarded to members of aircrew who complete a tour of operations has been augmented with the addition of a bar for each additional tour. One bar to the wing (left) indicates that the wearer has completed two tours of operations, two bars (right), three tours, and three bars (lower centre) show that four tours of operational flying have been completed. Hundreds of R.C.A.F. aircrew will soon receive their wing, many with a bar. The number of sorties constituting a tour has been laid down and aircrew who qualify for the award both in Canada and overseas will be entitled to the new wing. The certificate presented with the gold wing reads, "in recognition of distinguished services in that he has completed a tour of operational duty in action against the enemy."

13,000 Children Return to School

After three months of holidays 13,000 Edmonton children returned to school Tuesday after the Thanksgiving week-end. The extra month of holidays will have its effect on the school term because holidays at Easter will be shorter, and school will continue till the end of July next year. Christmas holidays will be as usual.

The routine of school days has been geared to meet the demands of war and the eagerness of school pupils to take an active part in some form of war effort. The long holiday was arranged so that pupils could assist with harvest operations, and now that the children are back at school they will still continue to take part in various activities pertaining to the war effort.

First Steel - Mat Aircraft Runway Laid in Canada

OTTAWA, Oct. 12—(CP) — The first steel-mat aircraft runway in Canada has been laid on a remote island beach off northern British Columbia by construction men of the R.C.A.F. in 13 days—three days ahead of schedule.

The strip is 4,700 feet long and 150 feet wide. It comprises mats 12 feet by three feet, interlocked to form a flat sweeping surface on the sand which is capable of supporting medium-size bombers on landings and take-offs.

"It filled a great need for land-based aircraft operating out of the northern Pacific area of Canada," the R.C.A.F. said.

Record-Smashing Food Production Expected in U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(AP)—Predictions of record-smashing food production in the United States this year now are being borne out as farmers push the harvesting of late crops amid generally favorable weather conditions, the agriculture department reported yesterday.

Crop production, taken by itself, will be about seven per cent below last year's phenomenal level. But this decline will be more than offset by an indicated increase of 12 per cent in the production of livestock and livestock products, such as cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry and eggs.

To meet unprecedented demands for direct food crops there are bumper crops of potatoes, rice, beans, peas and peanuts.

BOMBERS ACTIVE

Eighth Army artillery shelled German positions and vehicles on the Naples-Termoli road southwest of Colletorto.

Long-range bombers of the Northwest African air forces rounded out aefull week of daily bombings of German targets in Greece and the Aegean sea yesterday as Mitchells, escorted by Lightning fighters attacked the airfield at Geritza on Corfu. An enemy merchant vessel in Corfu harbor was hit twice.

On Sunday, the communique said, Liberators attacked German airfields at Heraklion on Crete and Calato, Rhodes.

The communique also disclosed that bomb-carrying Lightnings have given direct support to British troops holding out on Cos in the Dodecanese by raiding the Antimachia landing ground on the island Sunday.

Direct hits were scored on buildings and among parked aircraft at Antimachia field.

RHODES ATTACKED

Royal Air Force bombers from the middle eastern command bombed the Calato airfield on Rhodes Sunday night and a Cairo communique said bursts were observed on the runway. Fires were started in the aircraft dispefsal area and Over Italy, fighter-bombers attacked enemy gun positions, motor transport and trains while fighters patrolled the battle area without encountering enemy aircraft. Motor truck convoys north of Rome and near Frosinone were attacked Sunday night.

All planes returned safely from all raids.

Major Battle To Be Fought Along Volturno

By RELMAN MORIN

WITH THE 5TH ARMY ON THE VOLTURNO FRONT, Italy, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Two large armies tonight faced each other across the narrow, twisting length of the Volturno river awaiting the signal that will touch off one of the biggest battles of the war.

American artillery has been hammering enemy positions along the north bank of the flood-swept river without cessation during the last three days. The Germans reply, usually during the night hours, with some of the heaviest type shells.

The town of Pontalone, some three miles north of the river, was blazing from end to end, columns of smoke rising high. The artillery still was shelling the town.

The site of the coming battle is a cup-shaped valley almost ringed with hills. We hold the southern and southeastern slopes. The Germans are entrenched solidly in the north.

Soldiers, Indians Fight Grass Fire On Sarcee Reserve

CALGARY, Oct. 12.—(CP)—Two thousand soldiers from the Currie Barracks and Sarcee Camp, including all personnel from A-16 C.I.T.C., Currie, returned to their camps Saturday morning after battling a grass blaze in Sarcee Indian Reserve for more than 40 hours.

They were assisted in their fire fighting by Sarcee Indians, who fought to protect their farms and the valuable grass land bordering the 18-square-mile area under fire.

Dense clouds of smoke covered the whole area after the blaze got under way, obscuring the landscape around the military barracks.

None of the Indian homes were directly in the path of the fire.

COMES FROM MISSOURI

A native of Southwest City, Missouri, Colonel Stevens served for a short time in the Signal Corps during the first World War returning to civilian life in 1919, although he continued to serve with the Signal Corps branch of the Kansas National Guard. He was accepted for 'flying training' in the Army Air Corps Training Centre at Brooks Field, Texas, in February, 1924, and graduated a year later with a rating of military pilot. He again returned to civilian life in 1925, however, and became interested in civilian aviation. For many years he represented an aircraft manufacturing concern in Louisiana and was associated with various mining and lumbering companies in that area.

One of Colonel Stevens' activities during this period was the operation of a company engaged in "dusting cotton," a method of spraying the cotton with a disinfecting dust from airplanes flying low over the cotton plants. In this way, hundreds of acres could be covered by one plane in a brief time. Although it was necessary to fly at an altitude of only a few feet, with the wheels of the single-motored planes almost touching the tops of the cotton plants, Colonel Stevens, who did much of the flying himself, only had one forced landing over a period of several years. His motor quit and he landed in a field next to the cotton field he had been dusting. The nearby field happened to be a bog and his plane overturned but he was not seriously injured.

Colonel Stevens was graduated from the Signal School in 1922, the Army Air Corps Advanced Flying School in 1925, and the Command and General Staff School in 1935. Although his home is in St. Joseph, Missouri, his wife, Mrs. Nancy Stevens, and daughter, Jeanne, 11, are residing in Great Falls, Montana. He is 46 years old.

American Bombers Again Hit Base In Dutch Celebes

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Making their fourth 2,400-mile round trip flight from an Australian base, American-manned heavy bombers unloaded 25 tons of explosives and started huge fires among docks, fuel and oil depots at Makassar, Dutch Celebes.

The raid was staged Saturday night and all the big bombers returned.

Off the southern tip of New Ireland, a heavy bomber last night set a medium - sized enemy freighter afire some hours after Australian Beaufort bombers either sank or seriously damaged a 2,000-ton cargo vessel in the same waters.

With a backlog of over three decades' experience, Tip Top Tailors has shared in this gigantic job. Today, the greater part of our production is devoted to war purposes. Civilian clothing comes next—to the extent of our remaining time and facilities.

This is the reason why you may have to wait for delivery of your civilian Tip Top clothing a little longer than usual. Naturally there is no question of who comes first—you know and we know that the fighting men of our fighting forces must have "first serve"—and they are getting it, together with our grateful acknowledgment of the job they are doing.

Fliers Wanted

Air Minister Power is concerned about Allied air strength. He told an audience at Windsor that the time may come when we shall have planes grounded because there are not trained men to fly them. In the recruiting drive a year ago the R.C.A.F. built up a good reserve of enlistments. But this reserve had been exhausted at the end of last June and more recruits are needed now. The situation, the Minister said, is not "desperate" but it is "alarming".

This is a challenge to young Canadians that can hardly fail to bring the desired response. In the former great war, as in the present one, Canadian youth "took to the air" as ducks to water. There can scarcely be a community in all Canada which has not sent a goodly contingent to help keep the bombs falling on Nazi munitions factories and communication lines. But the bombs must fall now faster than they ever did before, and there are more and more planes to carry them.

The building plants are catching up on the training schools, and turning out machines at a pace which threatens to produce an unusable surplus unless more students flock to the schools.

Forty Years After

It is 40 years since Rev. Dr. J. H. Riddell founded Alberta College in Edmonton, a pioneer school of advanced education whose name is now a household word throughout the city and district and which holds a place in the front rank of institutions of its class in the whole Dominion. Alberta had not then been made a province. Edmonton's only railway connection was the serpentine E.Y. and P. from Strathcona.

Only 67 students were enrolled in the first year. There were 1,700 in the 1942-43 term. Meanwhile 40,000 young men and women have studied in the class rooms—and scattered to all parts of Canada, many to the United States and farther afield, and a great company of them serving in our forces at home and abroad.

The part that Alberta College has played in the life of this community cannot be reduced to words and figures. The fruits of education cannot be counted, measured or weighed in terms of exactness. They are in that sense intangible, great and vital though they are known to be. The lives of this great number of young people, most of them from homes in this section of Alberta, have been made richer and brighter and more useful through the training they received in the College. Undoubtedly very many of them were thus directed into the occupations which have become their life callings, and all were helped in qualifying for success in whatever line they chose to follow.

Very hearty congratulations are due to Rev. Dr. F. S. McCall, who succeeded Dr. Riddell as principal 30 years ago, and to all those who have had a hand in making the College the beneficent institution it has been and is.

Why Buy Bonds?

Most people who buy war bonds—and savings certificates—do so in part because self-interest prompts them. It is true that in doing this they help finance the nation's war effort, but not in the sense that they help the effort when they pay taxes. Money that is put into bonds is not spent. Exactly the contrary. Spending is restricted in order that the money can be saved. The investment represents self-denial. The buyer refrains from buying things he can do without in order to accumulate for himself spending power for future use. Sometimes he does without things he very much wants, and which he might class even as personal or family needs, in order to put aside a portion of his present earnings for other days and possibly more urgent needs.

War bonds as an investment are attractive only because the security is absolute, for the interest rate does not compare with the profits which might be gained if the money were put to other use. But because the security is absolute the investment stands in a class by itself. There is no danger that the money will be lost, or that the interest will not be paid. If it is a duty to buy bonds, and it is, it is also an opportunity. An opportunity which in wartime is offered more often than in peace time. No person who can invest in bonds from his earnings is now obliged by circumstances to put it into use involving a shadow of risk. He can deposit it with the Government on the security of the nation itself, and know for certain that his savings will not be swept away by any miscalculation.

The Canadian who does not buy bonds —or certificates—is passing up the chance of a lifetime to protect his own future and that of his dependants.

The Rains Intervene

Fall rains have come to the aid of the Axis forces in Russia, turning the ground into mud in the danger area west of Smolensk and slowing down the Red army offensive. Perhaps the respite will be welcome also to the Russians, who have been on the drive for nearly three gruelling months and need rest. They also need time to regroup and bring up equipment and supplies, for the transport service cannot have kept pace with the advance.

Though in this central area the invaders still hold a thin slice of territory east of the river, the Dnieper is now the dividing line throughout most of its length; and the Dnieper at the nearest point is more than 300 miles from Stalingrad. The freeze-up comes in central Russia about the middle of November, but the larger streams are not bridged with firm ice until a month or more later. The prospect therefore is that there will be relatively little fighting in this sector for some weeks, since the mud which is halting the Russians will equally prevent the Nazis staging a counter-offensive.

Inaction may be expected to spread from the Smolensk area south and north as the rains extend and roads become impassable.

It was fortunate for the Russians that they were able to keep going until the enemy had been pushed across the Dnieper and until the rains came. Now both the river and the mud will be protective barriers behind which they can gather forces and equipment with which to force the winter operations in which they have shown themselves so remarkably superior to the invaders.

It transpires that Berlin radio told the truth nearly a year ago when it announced that the Ceramic had been torpedoed and sunk by a Nazi submarine and 500 persons killed or drowned. The ship was en route from England to Cape Town—sufficient commentary on Berlin's alibi that it was carrying troops to North Africa. The Fascist regime having collapsed, there remain only two governments in the world which would instruct their naval officers to commit such a crime, but they are two too many.

The Saturday Night Review

Summary of Broadcast Delivered Over CFRN Oct. 9

By HAROLD L. WEIR

One universal query dominated all others this week. It was asked in Britain, in Canada, in Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. It came also from the United States Congress. It was the leading question in every American city. Doubtless it was the chief point of interest in Germany and every part of Europe.

That query was this:

When will the European war be over?

This question dominated all others, not only because people everywhere are feeling the tragic pressure of war more acutely than ever before, but also because, as the struggle went on into its fifth year, those who have a knowledge of history and human nature began to be apprehensive of the appearance of a general resignation to war conditions.

Harold L. Weir

For there is such a thing, you know, as a general acceptance of war as a normal state. That has happened several times in the world's history, notably in the Middle Ages, when exceedingly prolonged struggles went on and on, not only because no decisive victory was gained, but because the populations of the warring countries fell into a lethargy of resignation and eventually could not stir themselves to those supreme efforts necessary to bring about a conclusion.

The irony of such a situation, as history shows, lies in the fact that the more abnormal war becomes, the less are people able to drag themselves out of it.

It is a fact, and a tragic fact, that the people of belligerent countries fall into such a lethargic state very rapidly and without being conscious of it. It is also a tragic fact, well-known to history, that any nation that is engaged in a war for more than four or five years at a time is in grave danger of suddenly falling into such a state.

There are children of nine and 10 years old today who even now accept war as a normal condition, having no clear recollection of anything else.

So, you see, that is why the query about the end of the war is taking on a new urgency and a new importance.

It would be folly to pretend to speak authoritatively and with expert knowledge in reply to that question. One, of course, may guess, but my own private guess is that which I made on this broadcast some time ago, that the end of the European war will likely end in October, 1944.

Perhaps, I may say, is made on exactly the same basis on which I pick a horse in a race. And that, God knows, is haphazardly enough.

However, there is no harm in pointing out certain factors which will play a part in fixing the date of the war's end.

The first and most discussed factor is the problematical collapse of Germany internally. Now that is a something on which no intelligent man will even hazard a guess. There is not enough accurate information available, or haven't even a fraction of the facts.

We can only say this; that no matter how desperate conditions become in Germany, no matter how despondent and defeatist her people may be, as the German police, which literally has the German people in a nation-wide internment camp, remains faithful to the Nazi leaders, there is not much chance of the same thing happening as it did to Germany in the last.

It is foolish to say that conditions, in any respect, are parallel.

Nevertheless, the Gestapo—may transfer its allegiance. It may sell out to the military caste. It may be overthrown by some secret organization of revolt of which we know nothing.

But any of these things happens, Germany might collapse internally. And the war might end in two or three months. It is a hope with which to console ourselves. It is not a hope to believe.

There are dozens of other factors which will contribute to the war's conclusion, and of which there is no time to speak in an address which necessarily must touch only highlights. The chief of these, I think, is the future attitude of Russia.

At the present moment, heavy Autumn rains have called a halt to the spectacular series of Russian successes. By the end of November, the terrain will be in fighting condition again. Winter conditions will give the Russians a further advantage. There is no reason to believe that their soldiers, seasoned Winter fighters, will not be able to continue their advance with greater speed and success than before.

But will they do it? There is another question that must be answered. And it is important to be utterly frank and realistic about it.

The Germans have put out the rumor that the Russians are going to ask for a separate peace if they drive the German back beyond the territory claimed by the Soviets. The inference is that Germany realizing that the Russian war is lost, is deliberately staging an orderly if belligerent retreat with the idea of encouraging the Russians to negotiate for a separate peace.

Now it is ridiculous to deny that such a thing is possible. It is ridiculous to go all sentimental and tearfully declare that the Russians wouldn't do such a thing. Of course they would, if it gained them anything to do it.

In suppor: of those who fear that Russia will make a separate peace is the fact that Russian criticism of Britain's failure and America's failure to open a new front in West Europe still goes bitterly on. It is conjectured by some that this criticism is maintained at white heat for the deliberate purpose of providing the Russians with an excuse for making a separate peace.

That is one side of the case and we must face it courageously. It is needless to say that would Russia really withdraw from the struggle, a stalemate might ensue in the West that could prolong the war for years.

On the other hand, there are good reasons for believing that Russia would do no such thing.

There is the temper of the Russian people, for instance, raised to frantic bitterness against the Germans. There is said to be such a sentiment of hatred in Russia that Stalin would court revolution if he attempted to stay the hand of enraged Russian soldiers who have seen their homes destroyed by the barbarous enemy.

Then, there is the Russian pride in their army. The Russian army is not a temporary organization as it is in democratic countries. It is not a machine that is put to do a single job of work. It is a permanent thing. It is a symbolic thing. It is not an instrument of Russia—it is Russia.

Well, then, is it reasonable to believe that the operations of this magnificent machine will be curtailed for political purposes at a moment when it could win the greatest victory in history?

If this is the case, it is possible that the Russians may inflict such damage on the Germans this Winter as to break their military power before Spring.

This, then, is a fair picture of the situation. One may draw one's own conclusions, make one's own guesses, and write one's own ticket.

Always Cruel

Those European peoples who have lived alongside the Germans for centuries continue to declare that there is some inherent defect in the German character, that while individual Germans or transplanted Germans may be splendid people, Germans in the mass are treacherous, cruel, greedy and ambitious and always ready for war.

That this charge may not be lightly dismissed as the fruit of racial prejudice seems to be borne out by the behaviour of the Huns in Napies.

We have seen the beastly antics of these people in Italy, Everyone in Greece, in all the occupied countries and, above all, in little Lidice. We have observed their brutality. And we have merely said in the main not only by that brutality, but by the synthetic philosophy they advance to justify their barbarities.

It has been dreadful enough to contemplate the suicide of German decency. It is even more dreadful to witness the suicide of the German conscience.

And now we have the appalling testimony of Naples. They wantonly destroyed hospitals and their patients. They machine-gunned helpless civilians. They fouled water reservoirs. They carried off 70,000 civilian Italians for slaves.

And these were not matters of military necessity but merely the vengeful acts of frustrated beasts.

Everyone realizes that no point is served in calling the Germans names and merely denouncing their behaviour. But what, in heaven's name, are we going to do with them?

The fact is that the writing of the peace will pose a much greater spiritual problem than a military or economic or political problem. You can't put them to the sword; you can't assuage their savagery by adjusting their economic affairs; you can't temper their greed by changing their political system.

It boils down to this: that the recurring problem of the periodically insurgent Germanic tribes is beyond purely human solution. It involves a change in German character that cannot be effected by purely human means.

Those of you, then, who have been despising the Christian Church as an agency of superstition that has outlived in usefulness, had better change your tunes.

For the problem of the Germans is a problem that only the Christian Church, with superhuman aid, can solve. And if Christianity, hampered by lukewarmness or downright antagonism of people who should know better, fails to solve the problem—then God help the world and God help future generations.

Delinquency

A great many hysterical things have been said and are being said about current juvenile delinquency I am not going to take any part in the argument as to whether it is increasing or not because I don't know. But I am going to take a part in the discussion based on the ridiculous statement that children have a tendency to become antisocial and filled, with hate because there is a world revolt and hatred abroad in the earth.

Now there is a great deal of hatred between nation and nation. There is no escaping that. And it's absurd to deny it. But the hatred between nations does not spring from hatred within communities. It springs essentially from love and co-operation and trust within communities.

If people didn't love, they wouldn't fight. If the home and society had not established relations based on affection, no one would care enough about homes and society to fight for them. The greater the affection that exists within society, the deeper the hatred that is thrust out against those who attempt to destroy that society.

That is one thing we ordinarily fail to understand, the essential relationship between loving and fighting and even the essential relationship between loving and hating.

I emphasize this point, not only in respect of juvenile delinquency but in respect to those many people who endeavor to blame their irritability, their irresponsibility and their general meanness on the war.

It is a ridiculous claim. It's utterly false. For if communities can't live in peace and if individuals can't live in harmony in wartime, they never will.

"There are many little ways of practising economy in the home," proclaimed Mr. Wheeze to his guest, after making sure Mrs. Wheeze was out of hearing.

"So," encouraged the visitor politely.

"Yes. Last winter my wife said we must get a new sofa in the spring—"

"Well—"

"Instead, I got a new spring in the sofa."

War Effort Is Not Reduced

Home Defence Army Only Reorganized, Not Disbanded

By GRANT DEXTER

OTTAWA.—No statement issued by the government hitherto in this war has been so widely misunderstood as the Ralston announcement on the reorganization of the home defence army.

The immediate reaction in isolation circles at Washington was that Canada was cutting down her war effort. Even more important, however, is the confusion of thought created at home. Nearly two weeks after the announcement it is still widely believed that our home army, in the wording of the announcement, is to be "partially disbanded" and that the "smaller total establishment" will mean the return of substantial numbers of conscripted men to the farms, the factories, the woods and the mines.

Nothing could be farther from the fact than that there will be any demobilization of this kind. On the contrary, the calls for military service will be carried out to men now up to 30 years of age, are continuing and will continue to go out until the quotas of raising the age limit above 30 years may soon have to be faced.

Curiously enough, there was nothing in the announcement which Mr. Ralston had not forecast in great detail in his annual army survey to the House of Commons on May 14, and which he merely said in the announcement that the reorganization outlined by him in parliament on May 14 had been put into effect. Misunderstandings could not have arisen.

Reference to Hansard of May 14 makes the present changes fully understandable. What is not so clear, however, is that the big army dream of the general staff, which Mr. Ralston never wholly shared, has at long last had to be abandoned.

The immediate purposes of the reorganization are to ease the overseas reinforcement problem and in various ways so to arrange the home army that greater support for overseas will be available. The most shocking thing of all, no doubt, is why this was not done long ago.

To begin with, while there has been no official announcement, it is learned on good authority that the government in recent weeks has placed a definite ceiling on the fighting services. Their establishments of five divisions and two tank brigades plus the barest essentials of home defence. Such a decision would lead inevitably to the reorganization now announced. Hitherto, the home army establishment only made sense on the assumption that it would be used some day in actual combat. It was allowed to grow up as a mixture of conscripted and overseas service men. Obviously, the door was being held open for the movement overseas of some of these home divisions, as such, if over-all conscription was applied. The big army of eight or more divisions was still regarded as a possibility. That is no longer.

Many disadvantages flowed from the old set-up. The reinforcement problem was aggravated by it. There are those who profess great anxiety about the lack of adequate reinforcements. Others point to the army strength as proving that there are plenty of men in reserve. Up till now, however, large numbers of overseas men have been serving in the home defence units. At last they are to become available for overseas.

Speaking in the Commons on May 14 (page 2742 unrevised Hansard) Mr. Ralston argued that there were plenty of reinforcements. On the previous day he had said that there were more than 190,000 men overseas as of March 31, 1943. Men were going overseas at the rate of 70,000 per year and these would be largely for reinforcement. On May 14, he pointed out that there were in Canada more than 185,000 active service men, of whom at least 100,000 could be made available for overseas service. Finally, and ignoring the fact that recruiting is still proceeding, there were 65,000 conscripted men who, if need be, could be sent overseas.

The announcement on Sept. 12 means that the home establishment is going to be cut down not in the interest of home industry but of the overseas army. The overseas men in the home army establishment are going to be withdrawn: this is the real purpose of the "disbandment." The only men who will be discharged from service are those who are physically unfit and no longer of use in the army. Since they will all be well below category A, that means that needy industries at home will make no relief. Mr. Ralston never has conceded their claim against the army except in very limited numbers and in special circumstances. He doesn't do so now.

Moreover, the demand for physically fit men, while substantially reduced by the army program announced last May, is not being changed. Indeed, as Mr. Ralston told the Commons in May, this demand will continue until the end of the war. He looked forward not to skill-slackening but to belt-tightening. The manpower situation will not become easier; it will become more difficult.

There are those who say that in view of the manpower crisis, the government should ruthlessly prune defence, apply overall conscription and thus stop further army demands on civilian manpower. Mr. Ralston's reorganization, as his statement in Parliament made clear, has been undertaken partly as an answer to this kind of criticism.

There is an important difference, however, between Mr. Ralston's statement to parliament last May and the recent announcement. In May, Mr. Ralston clearly indicated that the home defence forces, after the reorganization, would be a minimum. Further reductions were not to be expected. In this announcement he speaks of the reorganization as being "the latest reduction" and adds that the possibility of further cuts are being studied. The improvement in the war, rather than in the domestic manpower, situation is probably responsible for this change. And it is also without saying that any further reductions in the home defence establishment will be undertaken with the purpose of aiding still further the overseas army.

27 Salmon One Day

From The VICTORIA TIMES.

The return of cohoe salmon to local waters, in what has all the signs of a good run, will be welcome news in British Columbia, and particularly so on Vancouver Island, where the value of a cohoe as a sport fish has not been neglected. Evidences of a fin run were reported over the week-end by sportsmen fishing in a variety of waters, from Victoria Harbor up to the narrow passes in the Gulf Islands. Many cohoes were brought in with a fair mixture of Spring salmon, some of the latter weighing as much as 48 pounds.

The man who lifts a 12-pound cohoe from the water after a 20-minute battle with light tackle has enjoyed an experience he will not soon forget. Hundreds of visitors to this community have enjoyed that privilege, and gone away chuckling over it.

It may be some years before we see again the great cohoe runs of 1910-1914, if indeed we ever do. Conditions obtained then that are gone today. On the other hand, there is undisputed evidence that the salmon are running now, and in volume that is encouraging both to commercial fisheries and to those with whom the cohoe is a sport fish.

H. C. Steele, fishing off Oak Bay, reeled in 69 salmon in four days, his biggest catch being 27 in one day. He uses a number three Martin plug with two ounces of lead and 40 feet of line. His best fishing spot has been between Golf Links Point and Trial Island.

Wheat or Maple?

FROM THE FORT WILLIAM TIMES JOURNAL

For many years there has been more or less discussion as to a distinctive flag for Canada. The discussion has penetrated at times to the House of Commons but nothing definite has been evolved—no unanimous decision has been reached.

The Ottawa Journal the other day had this to say: "Apropos of current talk about a Canadian flag, we say for a Red Ensign with a maple leaf on the fly, and we don't care who knows it". This is very frank and definite as far as The Ottawa Journal is concerned and that particular phase being settled, it might be a good idea to proceed with the crystallization of Canadian sentiment in regard to a distinctive national flag.

There may be other parts of the country that are not affected by the maple leaf obsession to the same extent as Ottawa and other points in East. There must be thousands of children on the vast prairie land who never have seen an authentic maple leaf—that is the broad-lobed leaf of the hard or sugar maple. There is no doubt as to the hard maple being a lordly and beautiful tree. There is no doubt as to the autumnal glory of a hard maple forest capping some lofty hill in Eastern Ontario or in Quebec. But even there the maple forests of the old days have disappeared almost completely in many areas.

Perhaps something more nationally representative could be chosen to figure in the design of a Canadian flag. Wheat, of one variety or another, is grown in most parts of Canada. There might be many who would favor a golden sheaf of wheat on the red ensign that The Ottawa Journal suggests.

If we are to have a distinctive flag let us hear from as many sources and persons as possible. Canada is a country to be proud of and to love and the flag should be designed so as to express that love and pride whenever and wherever flown.

Western Canadian Troops in Italy Fight Fierce Action to Take Hill

By WILLIAM STEWART

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, Oct. 12.— (CP) — Troops from western Canada had one of the fiercest fights on the Canadian front in Italy when they advanced on a well-defended crossroads in this area.

The Western Canadians fought against German armor and self-propelled guns for nearly 12 hours over ground much like the downs of southern England. They came under intense machine-gun and mortar fire but broke up the enemy's defence of the important road junction.

(The location of the action was not given in this dispatch, presumably for security reasons, but the Canadian 1st Division, which is attached to the British 8th Army, has been fighting in the neighborhood of Termoli on the Adriatic coast.)

PUSH UP HILL

The operation started in mid-afternoon when a company commanded by Major Syd Thompson of Salmon Arm, B.C., pushed up the open slopes of a hill known to the Canadians as "Ten Forty." It ended when dawn was near after the Canadians had fought tanks which withdrew one by one.

The audacity of the advance against well-set-up German positions dominating the slopes and screening the crossroads behind probably caused the Germans to believe that much more than a battalion of infantry was moving upon them.

When the tanks rolled away, leaving the soggy, brown fields carved with deep ruts, the German machine-gunners already had fled from most of their nests around "Ten Forty," leaving their equipment and their dead behind.

The officers and men of the company which led the attack up "Ten Forty" said the Germans stuck by their guns until the Canadians were only about 30 yards away; then turned tail, discarding even their helmets for the sake of speed.

But before they left they rained on the Canadians a concentration of fire which the troops said was fiercer than any they previously had experienced.

ATTACK LAUNCHED

Th Canadians started out for "Ten Forty" about 4 p.m. as the sun sank toward the ridge where the Germans had a string of machine-gun posts.

With the sun glaring in their eyes, Thomson's company swung down the incline to a ravine from which a twin-shouldered hill arises. The ground was soft and sticky from the previous night's rain, making the going difficult.

The two platoon commanders—Lieuts. Ken McBride of Nelson, B.C., and Ted Healy of Quesnel, B.C.—were going into action for the first time as were some of their men who had come to the battalion as reinforcements. The third platoon commander was Lieut. A. L. Robinson, of Kamloops, B.C. Watching the new men closely to see how they would stand up to the fighting were the tough section sergeants, veterans of the previous fighting.

As the Canadians were within a few hundred yards of the first shoulder the stutter of a German machine-gun broke out and the men dropped flat in the mud. Mortar and shell fire began smacking into the soft soil on the right flank and McBride's men could see a single tank firing at them from a nearby slope.

Deep, greasy mud absorbed much of the shell shocks and prevented the free flight of shrapnel. Sgts. Johnny Elaschuk of Turin, Alta., Les Leedam of Courtenay, B.C., and George Booth of Vancouver kept the men moving so they wouldn't become easy targets.

Here and there piles of white rock and stubbly brush provided cover as the men inched their way forward, covered by machine-gun fire from their light infantry support higher up the hill, finally getting within range of an enemy machine-gun nest up the other hill.

Elaschuk said the newcomers stood up stoutly to their first test and told how the troops mounted the hill a few steps at a time. As they reached the first enemy held ridge, he said, the German gunners fled.

The company commander who had been out in front called back for artillery fire on the tank and mortar positions. One of the first men over the ridge was Cpl. Don Cameron, former Sudbury, Ont., boxer who gave chase to the fleeing Germans with a tommygun and had to be ordered back because of the fire from other German positions.

Pte. Stanton Trehernman and Don Griffin of Woodmore, Man., earned the respect of their mates for the way they operated machine-guns.

Riflemen included Howard Wylie of Winnipeg.

GAIN HILLTOP

The company gained the hilltop shortly before dark and the rest of the battalion came up and pushed on. The flight of tanks against self-propelled guns went on after dark along the many ridges before reaching the crossroads.

The battalion withdrew before daylight, but the Germans also left the area and the crossroads were taken the following day.

BRITISH PLANES NOW SHOOT WAY PAST BALLOONS

LONDON, Oct. 12—(CP)—British bombers now "shoot" their way through any barrage balloon cables they hit with automatic Rube-Goldberg gadgets.

At points placed along the front wing edge are short plugs against which the cables catch with great impact due to the plane's speed. The impact works a trigger which sets off an explosive cartridge in the wing. The explosion drives forward a small nickel-chrome steel chisel which pins the cable against a little "anvil" in the plug and severs it.

All this happens so fast the plane's progress is unimpeded.

The gadget was patented by James Baker, an airplane plant manager before the war.

Torpedoed Seamen Sail 2,800 Miles On Indian Ocean

LONDON, Oct. 12—CP) — Nine seamen from a Norwegian tanker which was torpedoed by a Japanese raider sailed and rowed a lifeboat more than 2,800 miles across the Indian ocean in a 30-day voyage, the Norwegian government reports.

Nineteen men started the voyage after the raider sank their ship six days out of an Australian port. Ten died of wounds from shell splinters and from exhaustion during the trip, the captain said.

On the 18th day, after four had died, the boat capsized in a rough sea but the men managed to cling to the craft and right it.

During the next 12 days six more died but on the 30th day land was sighted. It proved to be Madagascar.

Under supervision of Miss Laura Parnham of Edmonton, the pupils collected odd pieces of material from their homes, and sewed them together at the school. One family donated wool to fill the quilt and a donation from each pupil paid for the lining. Mothers and older girls of the school did the quilting and the children proudly presented it to the Red Cross.

McKenney On Bridge

Often in tournament game a player finds himself in an unmakable contract, and correctly so. For instance, in the hand shown today, North and South had no trouble in making three no trump, but good players should arrive at five clubs at least—which, due to the distribution, can be defeated.

Most players will agree that over one club North should bid one heart. The bid of two diamonds is a reverse bid and is used by most players to show a very strong hand. North's correct response is three clubs, not two no trump. Certainly South cannot be criticized for making another slam try by bidding three spades. When North bids three no trump, South is justified in jumping to five clubs.

South wins the opening lead with the ace of spades, then leads a small club and finesses the jack. When the nine-spot drops from the East hand, the declarer is warned that West may hold four clubs to the king-ten. He returns to his own hand with the ace of diamonds and leads with the queen of clubs and West covers—a very bad mistake. Declarer wins with the ace, returns to his hand with a diamond, and now he can ruff a diamond.

If West does not cover the queen of clubs, he is bound to make two club tricks, as the declarer has to use one of dummy's clubs to ruff a diamond.

Northern Rhodesia has given more than $4,500,000 to war charities and funds.

Meeting Wants Two Units Replace One

THREE HILLS.—The provincial government will be asked to form two enlarged municipal districts here instead of one, according to a resolution passed at a recent Three Hills meeting.

Attended by councils of Ghost Pine, Stauffer, and Norquay, the meeting was held to discuss a proposed large unit at Knee Hill. Carbon was not represented at the meeting.

H. F. Pryor was named as chairman of the meeting and Charles Christie, secretary. It was said by F. King that the proposed unit was much too large and would be difficult to supervise, and it was decided to recommend that Carbon and Norquay municipal districts form one unit, with another unit for Ghost Pine and Stauffer districts.

It was also suggested that regardless of boundaries of the new unit voting should be done by divisions as at present.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Merrick Drug Stores or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results your druggist will gladly return your money.

Today, again, we are looking toward A NEW WORLD!

JUST AS COLUMBUS, the perils of his epic voyage behind him, looked on that October morning long ago at the land rising from the sea ahead so, also, we . . . at some not too far distant date . . . will finally sight our own new world which lies beyond the seas of war.

That world will offer justice, liberty and life to all . . . but, before we attain it, we must win our way through troubled waters, must emerge triumphant from the storm of battle.

Today all hands are needed still on deck . . . working with might and main and giving of all they have . . . to speed the victory.

Chandler Winds Up Series With 2-0 Victory Over Cardinals

Bronx Bombers Annex 10th World Title

Dickey's Home Run Settles Fifth Game

By JUDSON BAILEY

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—New York Yankees re-established their supremacy in baseball Monday by conquering the desperately struggling St. Louis Cardinals 2-0 before 33,872 fans for their fourth victory in five games of the 1943 world series.

It was the 10th world championship for the Bombers from the Bronx and the clincher was delivered by two of the veterans who have shared in the spoils of many of those previous triumphs—pitcher Spud Chandler and catcher Bill Dickey.

The 36-year-old Dickey, one of the greatest backstops in the history of the game, decided the final skirmish in the sixth inning with a two-run homer that landed on the roof of the right field pavilion, 325 feet from the plate.

It was a mighty blow to climax the lustrous career of Dickey, who has been on nine Yankee squads in the World Series starting as a rookie in 1928, and it helped Chandler, 34-year-old dean of New York's mound staff, to his second success of the series.

Without his hefty home run the last contest of the classic might have gone either way in spite of the shutout pitching of the Georgia right-hander, for Chandler was pelted for 10 hits and was kept in almost constant trouble by the Cardinals.

FIVE STRAIGHT STRIKEOUTS

At the start of the duel it was big Mort Cooper, ace of the Cards, who appeared invincible as he struck out the first five batters he faced and he was going strong in search of a repeat victory over the Yanks right up until the time Dickey punched the winning ticket.

He had retired the first two batters in the top half of the sixth when Charley (King Kong) Keller, an example in futility during most of the series, topped a ball that rolled into right field for a single.

On the next pitch Dickey hammered out his homer and that was the ball game, although there were other trimmings for the fans, whose presence brought an attendance record of 277,312 for a five-game series.

Altogether the Yanks made just seven hits and Dickey's clout was only his fifth of the series, but it was his fourth with men on bases and the third which drove in runs.

The Cardinals used every effort Manager Billy Southworth could conceive to stave off defeat. They made two changes in their outfield, subbing Johnny Hopp and Debs Garms for Harry Walker and Danny Litwhiler, and they tried to stir up their old base-running style of speed and thunder.

LACK TIMELY HITTING

In the first inning they got two runners on base with one out on an infield single, a sacrifice and a walk, but they couldn't break through.

In the second inning they put two on with none out as Ray Sanders singled and banged into Shortstop Frank Crosetti to make him drop the ball on a double play attempt on Hopp's bouncer, but again it was to no avail.

Walker Cooper singled with two out in the third and was thrown out trying to make it a double.

A single and walk gave the Redbirds and they came up with one hit in the two runners with none out in the fourth sixth and seventh stanzas and two each in the eighth and ninth. Yet for all the good it did them they might just as well have been held hitless, for Chandler managed to tighten down and suppress every threat.

The Yankees also made several gestures at Cooper and his successors on the mound, Lefty Max Lanier and Murry Dickson, the right-hander who was given leave from the army for the servies after he had been supposed to enter military service a week before the series started.

Following Cooper's spectacular feat of striking out the first five New York batters, coming within one of the series record, he walked Nick Etten on four straight pitches and a bad throw by Catcher Walker Cooper trying to catch the runner off first let him reach second.

Joe Gordon grounded out to end this business but the Yankees were right back in the next frame pressing for a run. With two out, Crosetti and Bud Metheny hit successive singles and Crosetti reached third before Bill Johnson popped up.

In the fifth Tuck Stainback singled with one out; was sacrificed to second and raced to third on a wild pitch, but Crosetti raised a helpless fly.

WALKER COOPER INJURED

Crosetti fouled off numerous pitches before going out, however, and one of these tips struck Catcher Walker Cooper on the index finger of his right hand causing a compound dislocation that forced him out of the game. He kicked his mitt along the ground in front of him in disgust as he trudged toward the dugout.

As it turned out, however, the injury to their regular catcher did not hurt the Cardinals for his replacement, Ken O'Dea, made two hits on his two times at bat and came through with a sparkling fielding play in which he caught Chandler's pop foul with two on and one out in the ninth.

After giving up the winning runs in the sixth, Cooper pitched the seventh, putting on a runner with a walk, before being removed for a pinch batter in the last half of the inning.

Lanier, who had been beaten by Chandler in the series opener, at New York last Tuesday, and who had returned for a starting assignment Sunday without success, came to the mound again at the beginning of the eighth inning, struck out the first batter, gave a single to Johnson and a walk to Keller, and then was saved by a double play.

In the ninth he was tapped for a single by Nick Etten and a walk by Gordon with none out. After Stainback had bunted into a force play attempting to sacrifice, Lanier was relieved by Dickson, who got Chandler on his pop foul, but issued a walk to Crosetti to load the bases before Metheny grounded out to end the inning.

Leonard, Wood Win Golf Match

VANCOUVER, Oct. 12.—(C.P.)—Turning in a seven under par best ball of 64 over the rolling Quilchena golf course, Freddy Wood and Stan Leonard of Vancouver, western Canada's leading professional, Saturday defeated Lieut. Bud Ward, U.S. amateur champion and Neil Christian, Spokane pro two up in an 18 hole exhibition in aid of the United Service shows.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW by Hal Dean

SPORTS EDITOR

WELL, the series is over for another year and the sorry showing which St. Louis put up when the chips were down aside from causing disappointment amongst Cardinal fans, must have been a great surprise to even the most rabid Yankee partizans.

It seems hard to believe those Cards with a few notable exceptions such as Terry Moore, Enos Slaughter, Howard Beazley and Howie Pollett for example are the same team which the world was being told just 12 months ago might, "within the next few years go tearing on to win ranking with the greatest teams in baseball."

The new champions were given great pitching, particularly by Spud Chandler and Marius Russo and so was St, Louis for that matter, but in the final analysis the ability of Joe McCarthy's men to come through when hits meant runs turned the tide in their favor.

Of Bill Dickey's five safe blows, one a game-winning homer, four came with runners on and three of them drove in runs. Always a consistent hitter in the clutch, the game's foremost catcher furnished evidence anew of his claim to a niche amongst baseball's all-time greats.

YANKEE SHARES $6,123.20

THE Yankees cut up a total of $204,692.41 of the World Series record players' pool of $488,055.74, each receiving $6,123.20. They voted a total of $9,020 in cash awards to several members of their baseball "family," including the players who are in the armed forces and divided the rest into 32 shares.

The Cardinals, splitting up a loser's end of $136,541.62, voted about $500 in cash awards and divided the rest up into 31½ shares.

The rest of the players' pool—$146,401.72—goes to six clubs which finished second, third and fourth in both major leagues during the regular pennant season. The second place finishers, Washington and Cincinnati, cut up 50 per cent of $36,600.43 each. Brooklyn and Cleveland get 33 1-3 per cent—$24,400.28 each. The fourth-place outfits, the Chicago White Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates split 16 2-3 per cent—$12,200.15 each.

HERE AND THERE

SATURDAY'S interfac football game between Engineers and Arts-Com-Law was easily the best of the schedule so far. It was even-Stephen so far as first downs went, each picking up four. Engineers tossed three forwards and made one stick, while Arts tried seven without completing any.

Arts didn't have sufficient reserve strength to stand the heavy going, dressing only three subs. Bob Schrader and Brian Dunsworth did some great ball carrying, but Ernie Cudby's reverse was good for 40 yards and almost a touchdown was the best run of the afternoon.

And when the orchids are being passed around, how about a double order for Dorothy Ward? Dorothy set up three new intra-mural marks in winning four firsts in the University girl's track meet on Saturday afternoon. In addition the Science ace secured one third and was a member of the second-place relay squad. Sylvia Calloway, who competed at Vancouver last summer under the colors of the Edmonton Girls' Athletic Club captured two firsts and a pair of seconds and was on the winning relay team.

New Westminster Wins To Even Lacrosse Finals

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Oct. 12.—(CP)—New Westminster Salmonbellies evened up the 1943 edition of Canada's national lacrosse championship for the Mann Cup Monday night by defeating the defending champion, Mimico-Brampton Combines, 10-5.

Combines won the opening game of the best of five series Saturday 10-9.

A crowd of 4,700 saw one of the tightest games here this season. Salmonbellies were blanked in the opening quarter and for a while it looked like a repeat performance for Combines until the Fishmen got rolling later.

New Westminster came back strong to score five times in the second quarter for a halft-ime lead of 5-2 and never lost control of the game thereafter. They outscored the easterners 3-1 in the third quarter and matched Combines' two final-quarter goals.

Scoop Hayes of Combines was cut over the right eye in rough play in the third quarter but officials said he would be ready to go when the teams meet in the third game Wednesday night.

Salmonbelly scoring honors were divided between Bert Bryant, Doug Ross and Bill Wilkes with two goals each while Isaacs, Masters, Gimblett, Dixon and Brunskill were the Combines scorers.

Moss Re-Elected President

Minor Hockey Is Stressed At A.A.H.A. Annual Meeting

CALGARY, Oct. 12.—(CP)—Completing one of the most business-like meetings in the history of the organization, during which the importance of encouraging minor league hockey was strongly stressed, Alberta Amateur Hockey Association, at its annual session here Saturday, re-elected Jack Moss, Vegreville, president, and J. V. McDougall, Blairmore, vice-president.

George Macintosh, Edmonton; V. C. W. Stanley, High River; D. P. McDonald, Calgary; R. MacKenzie, Lacombe; Pete Egan, Calgary and Ed Bruchet, Lethbridge, were named the executive committee and J. T. North, Calgary, was re-elected registrar-treasurer for his eleventh term.

In the election for executive officers J. V. McDougall, D. P. McDonald and George Macintosh headed the poll for the south, Calgary and central zones, respectively, and were elected for two year terms. Ed Bruchet, newcomer to the executive, takes the place of Ken Ringland, also of Lethbridge, who resigned because of his air force duties.

One of the features of the session was the presence of Frank Sargent of Port Arthur and Al Pickard of Regina. This is said to be the first time that both the president and vice-president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association had attended an Alberta branch annual.

Albert Branch will devote the C.A.H.A. grant of $1,500 to the encouragement of minor hockey, particularly on behalf of the midgets and juveniles. Grants will be made to Edmonton, Calgary, Drumheller, Crow's Nest Pass, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Lacombe, Canmore and Banff.

John McCormack, an Edmonton juvenile now attending St. Michael's College, Toronto, will be granted a transfer to Ontario. Eddie Kutts, husky defenceman of Edmonton, now reported to be in Montreal, will have to secure a release from the club he played with last winter before he is given a transfer to play with the junior Royals.

Notre Dame Rates Best College Team

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Notre Dame ranks as the United States' best college football team today following one of the greatest shows of unanimity ever expressed in The Associated Press' weekly polls to determine the 10 top teams in the country.

Ninety-nine experts participated. Eighty-six of them marked the Irish as best. None of the remaining 13 voters ranked them lower than third.

The Irish, who bopped Michigan 35-12 last Saturday, thus received 941 votes of a possible 990, counting one first-place ballot as 10, a second as nine and giving eight points for a third-place ranking.

The leading elevens with point totals (first place votes in parenthesis):

Notre Dame (86), 941; Army (1), 847; Navy (1), 669; Pennsylvania (1), 408; Purdue, 389; Duke, 370; Iowa Pre-Flight, 325; Southern California, 309; Michigan, 273; College of Pacific, 125.

Notre Dame Stars May Be Posted

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Notre Dame has stepped out as the outstanding college football team in the United States. But the same naval trainees who have made Notre Dame an October power may keep the school from the gridiron greatness it enjoyed under the late Knute Rockne.

Angelo Bertelli, whose passes Saturday were instrumental in a 35-12 rout of Michigan, and a half dozen teammates likely will be moved along at the end of the month by the navy department—to the anguish of Coach Frank Leahy and the joy of the Irish's November foes.

Bertelli tossed for two touchdowns, plunged for a third, set up a fourth and kicked five extra points as the Ramblers bowled over Michigan, rated as the second strongest team in the country, for their third straight conquest.

Other easy victories included Army's 51-0 massacre of previously unbeaten Temple. Purdue's trimming of Camp Grant, 19-0, and Iowa Pre-Flight's 25-0 walloping of Iowa.

Regina Roughriders Beaten Twice

WINNIPEG, Oct. 12.—(CP)—Winnipeg United Services earned their first victory in the western Canada armed services rugby league here yesterday at Osborne Stadium when they scored two converted touchdowns to defeat Regina All-Services Roughriders, 12-0.

Two thousand fans witnessed the game which saw United Services team cross the Regina goal-line in the second quarter and again late in the fourth quarter. The win placed the victors in a tie for last place with Regina, both have one triumph.

Hymie Marder, a Winnipeg youth playing his second full season in senior ranks, put the United Services team ahead in the second quarter when he gobbled up LAC. Ken Charlton's fumble of big Jim Foubister's kick on the Regina 10-yard stripe to run the remaining distance to touchdown territory. Lt. Lee Sherman, who formerly toiled for Union College at Schenectady, N.Y., booted the convert.

The two teams fought it out tooth and nail in the third quarter and for most of the fourth but Cpl. Paul Gates, a member of the United States Army stationed in Winnipeg, swept around right end from the Regina 16-yard line for the second United Services major score. Shermon again drove the ball through the posts for the convert.

Gates, a halfback was one of the main threats in the United Services line-up and played a brilliant game. He bit off huge chunks of ground around the ends and did most of the team's passing.

Charlton, who returned to the Regina line-up after missing Saturday night's clash with Winnipeg R.C.A.F Bombers through air force duties, was a standout for the All-Services Roughriders. His towering punts averaged 49.2 yards and he chalked up the majority of the team's gains along the ground.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 13.—(CP)—A powerful Winnipeg R.C.A.F. football team ran true to form Saturday night in grinding out a 29-0 victory over a weakened Regina team before 2,000 fans at Osborne Stadium in a Western Canada Armed Services Football League game.

Pacing the Winnipeg attack were Ches McCance and LAC. Johnny Lake, both ace backfielders, who combined to score 19 of their team's points. McCance tallied two touchdowns and two converts and Lake a touchdown and two converts.

McCance dashed over the Regina line twice in the first half to equal a two touchdown performance he turned in against Winnipeg United Services Sept. 29. Lake crashed over from the seven yard stripe in the first quarter to put the Bombers out in front 5-0.

It was the third consecutive victory for the Winnipeg club this season. They defeated the Regina club 10-2 in a previous meeting and downed Winnipeg United Services 12-6 in another fixture.

Winnipeg's over-all superiority over the Regina team, which was playing without the services of two backfield aces, LAC. Ken Charlton and Jim Kinney, was indicated in the statistics which gave the Bombers nine first downs to Regina's three. The Bombers chalked up 170 yards rushing to 50 for Regina.

Indians Defeat Navy 14-13

Hurricanes Trim Ottawa 15-3 To Gain Tie With Hamilton

TORONTO, Oct. 13.—(CP)—Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes gained a first-place tie with Hamilton Flying Wildcats Monday by defeating Ottawa Combines 15-3 in the second half of an Ontario Rugby Football Union Thanksgiving Day doubleheader at Varsity Stadium.

In the opener Toronto Indians registered their first victory in four starts by shading Toronto Navy 14-13. The result left Navy and Indians tied for fourth place, four points behind Toronto Balmy Beach, who were idle yesterday, and six behind Hurricanes and Wildcats.

PO. Bill Stukus, clever field general who led Hurricanes to the Dominion championship last fall, played his first game for the Airmen this season and was one of their main offensive threats. Stukus is home on leave and it is not known how long his services will be available to Hurricanes.

Combines, playing their second game in three days, were eliminated from playoff contention as they suffered their fifth straight setback, but they led 3-0 at the end of the first half on a placement by George Fraser. Touchdowns by LAC. Bob Cosgrove and AC2. Doug Smylie, two vonverts by Sgt. Fred Kijek and three singles by FO. Alexander, all in the second half, gave Hurricanes their victory.

A touchdown in the last three minutes of play by Harper Owen, converted by Earl Selkirk, gave Indians their narrow decision over Navy.

WILDCATS GAIN FOURTH STRAIGHT WIN

HAMILTON, Oct. 12.—(CP)—Hamilton Wildcats blasted an authoritative path to the top of the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior standings here Saturday with a 29-3 victory over Ottawa Combines.

It was the fourth straight victory for the Wildcats, and the fourth straight loss for the Combines.

Joe Krol's outstanding passing and punting was main reason for the one-sided Hamilton victory, coupled with some murderous tackling by Wildcat linemen that smothered almost every Ottawa kick runback before it could gain traction.

BEACHES STRENGTHEN HOLD ON THIRD PLACE

TORONTO, Oct. 12.—(CP)—Toronto Balmy Beach strengthened their hold on third place in the Ontario Rugby Football Union Saturday by defeating Toronto Navy 9-1, before 7,000 fans at Varsity Stadium.

Beaches netted all their points in the first half and played it close to the vest in the final 30 minutes. The Sailors scorde their lone point in the third quarter.

Four Hits Off Lanier

Marius Russo Whole Show In Fourth Game of Series

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Lefty Marius Russo carved out a great chunk of personal glory for himself Sunday before 36,196 sweltering fans by pitching and batting the Yankees to a 2-1 victory that gave New York a commanding three-games-to-one lead over the St. Louis Cardinals in the 1943 world series.

The ruddy - cheeked young southpaw, showing not the least sign of the sore arm which had bothered him for two seasons and cast doubt on the advisability of using him in the series at all, held the Redbirds to seven hits and could have had a shutout.

However, when sloppy support cost him a run to tie the score in the seventh inning, Russo came up with his second double of the contest and scored the deciding run.

Despite the heat which caused thousands of the spectators jammed in the stands to sit in their shirt sleeves, Russo performed effortlessly on the mound, kept ahead of almost every batter and by all odds produced the outstanding pitching job of the series to that time.

In seven innings Lanier gave up four of New York's six hits and fanned five and he was able to leave the game with the score tied so that it eventually was Harry Brecheen, a freshman lefthander making his third relief appearance of the series, who was charged with the setback.

"M" Depot and Quartermasters Win in Fastball

With Chris Killeen pitching one-hit ball, No. 3 "M" Depot made it two straight over Aircraft Repair Dopesters, winning 4-3 in the opener of a charity fastball doubleheader at Kingsway Park Sunday afternoon.

Northwest Division Quartermasters defeated Moose 8-3 in the second half of the twin bill behind the seven-hit chucking of Tom Fowle.

In the opener, the Airmen led by Ted Walker with two for three, collected five hits off Al Young in a close game that saw the Dopesters take a 2-0 lead in the first inning.

Two four run rallies, one in the third and the other in the last of a seventh inning contest accounted for all of the Quartermasters' counters. Moose scored one in the second, but fell behind in the next frame and were unable to overcome the U.S. squad margin.

Following are the line scores:

Arts-Com-Law Lose 7-5

Engineers Take Over Lead In Varsity Interfac Football

ENGINEERS moved out in front in the University of Alberta interfaculty football league when they defeated Arts-Com-Law 7-5 at Varsity stadium on Saturday afternoon.

A singleton scored in the opening quarter on Alex Richardson's kick gave the Engineers a lead and they added a touchdown in the third quarter when Dick May broke through to block a kick, Jack Setters picked up the convert point.

Arts' only points came near the close of the final quarter, also on a blocked kick. Mike O'Byrne carrying the ball over after he along with Ron Andrews and Don Baker had crashed through the Engineers' line before Richardson could get a kick away.

The two teams battled on practically even terms during the first quarter, both moving the yardsticks good. Richardson's kick which counted the single point was from the 35-yard line.

The Arts-Com-Law combination made a great drive in the second quarter. Schrader got in one run of 15 yards and Dunsworth picked up 20.

Best run of the game was a 40-yard canter on a reverse by Ernie Cudby in the third session. It was near the end of the quarter that May broke through to block Bill Simpson's kick.

Arts-Com-Law secured their touchdown on the last play of the game, O'Byrne, Naftress and Baker driving through to another Richardson's kick from 15 yards out. Simpson missed the convert.

Blackpool Loses Out 1-0 to Bury In Soccer Upset

LONDON, Oct. 12—(CP Cable)—Classy Blackpool, English soccer champions last season, suffered their first defeat of the season Saturday in one of a series of upsets in the day's football program.

Losing 1-0 to downtrodden Bury, Blackpool fell from first to fifth place in the league north, in which Liverpool, Sunderland, Aston Villa and Northampton Town are tied for leadership with 12 points.

A crowd of more than 30,000 in Glasgow's huge Hampden Park went mad as the famed Glasgow Rangers took the Glasgow Cup by blanking Clyde 2-0. McIntosh scored both goals.

Liverpool edged out Everton 6-4 before a crowd of 25,000, Sunderland downed Darlington 2-1, Aston Villa and Coventry battled to a scoreless draw and Northampton trimmed Walsall in other league north games.

The biggest surprise in the league south was registered by the cellar-dwelling Clapton Orient, who forced Arsenal Gunners to a 1-1 tie. The Gunners, southern champions, had to fight all the way to avoid defeat.

Reading shared the league lead with Queens Park Rangers although they could only draw 1-1 with Portsmouth. Rangers whipped Millwall 2-1. In other league south games, Chelsea scored their third successive victory, defeating Aldershot 3-1, while Tottenham whitewashed Brighton 2-0.

The league west leaders, Lovells Athletic ran up the biggest score of the afternoon in trouncing Swansea 9-0. Bath jumped into second place by defeating Bristol 4-2.

Absence of Glasgow Rangers from the Scottish southern league tournament enabled Dumbarton and Hibernian to share the lead with Rangers, each with 14 points. Dumbarton had a hard struggle before defeating Queens Park 2-1 while Hibernian edged out Falkirk 5-3.

Raith Rovers remained at the head of the Scottish northeastern circuit although losing 2-1 to Dunfermline, who are in second place.

Alberta Highways Expand Despite Great Shortages Necessary Labor, Material

In spite of restrictions placed on materials and equipment and of serious handicaps imposed by the manpower shortage, the current year has witnessed the greatest expansion of highways and roads in the history of Alberta, Hon. W. A. Fallow, minister of public works, said in an address here Monday night.

No less than 2,000 miles of municipal and district roads have been graded this year, and 650 miles gravelled. In addition, 280 miles of grading and 345 miles of gravelling of main highways has been carried out, with over $750,000 spent on maintenance work.

No less than $951,000 was spent on district roads and on grants to municipalities for construction and maintenance of roads in their own territories, he added.

The complete address follows:

As the victorious forces of the Allied nations drive inward on all the battlefronts, those of us here in Canada surely cannot fail to realize more and more that we have a tremendous responsibility to make sure that when our boys return, it will be to a Canada which will be worthy of them. We must not, we dare not, fail them in this. We must never allow a repetition of the disgraceful treatment which was handed out to their fathers after the last war. I believe that the people of this country realize this. I believe they are waking up to the fact that unless they do something about it, the men in control of our economic institution — those supermarketeers who can manipulate governments and nations by their control of finance — intend to use this war to get us back to the old pre-war system in a more insensified form.

I tell you that the situation which is developing is critical — deeper, darkly critical. It demands action. If we imagine that we can pussyfoot with it, hoping that everything will somehow come out alright, we shall find ourselves plunged into disaster.

However, I am here to discuss only one aspect of this great question of post-war reconstruction. In any plans we make for the development of our province after the war, one of the most important matters will be a definite and effective highway and road construction program.

LAID FOUNDATIONS

I am glad to say that the foundations for this have already been laid in Alberta. Ever since your Social Credit government was first elected eight years ago, we have been steadily developing a long range road construction policy. First we scrapped the old wasteful and vicious system of borrowing millions of dollars to pay exhorbitant amounts to contractors for government road work. We adopted a "pay-as-you-go" policy, using the money voted by the legislature out of public revenue to build and maintain our highway system with our own machinery and skilled staff. At first we were not able to do as much as we wished, but each year it has been possible to expand our program as we obtained additional machinery and our men gained greater experience. During the four years up to the end, the progress made was spectacular. Then our difficulties started and with each year of war these have increased.

However, you may be astounded to know that, in spite of restrictions which have been placed upon materials and equipment and in spite of the serious handicap of manpower shortage, the current year has witnessed the greatest expansion of highways and roads in the history of Alberta.

Think of that, please, for a moment. I repeat! Despite the fact that heavy restrictions have been placed upon the use of road-building materials and upon the purchase of machines and repair parts for them; despite the fact that your government has diverted a considerable number of its machines to assist the Dominion government in the building of airports and in the construction of other war-time projects, there has been a greater expansion of our road system in this province than in any previous year in our history.

I shall have some more to say about that by way of explanation in a few moments, but, first, I find it necessary to recall a few circumstances out of a past marked by the lack of vision and, in some cases, the cruel stupidity of your administrators for some 30 years. That unhappy chapter was closed utterly and completely on Aug. 22, 1935. It was a chapter of debt, depression and, which is more regrettable, taxes to pay interest on roads long after the roads had ceased to exist.

You were paying over two million dollars every year as interest on bonds representing borrowed money for roads, but you didn't have any roads worthy of the name.

HISTORY NOW

It's history now, but you will recall that one of the first things your government started out to accomplish was a first rate system of highways. It was significant to us that the Motor Transport Association of this province now goes on the air daily with a news broadcast and a message to tell the people of Alberta about the importance of the motor transport industry to this province. It is an undeniable fact that Alberta's motor transport business is now carrying metropolitan services to virtually every rural district. Daily trucking service from the cities is maintained to hundreds of communities which, prior to 1935, had no trucking service whatsoever. Today, freighting trucks carry fresh supplies from the country to the cities and, likewise, carry the needs of the farmers from the cities to the farms. The growth of this important department of transportation has been so gradual that it has come upon us almost unnoticed, but to have it discontinued at short notice would be to work great and bitter hardship upon nearly all of our rural districts. You will all realize that this transportation service depends entirely upon good roads. It depends upon more than paved highways. It depends upon good secondary and district roads. Its very existence proves that these roads are being kept in good condition because unless they were, the transportation business could not operate profitably.

HARD SURFACING

Not so long ago, nearly all the publicity given to the Social Credit government's road policy was focussed upon our program to hard surface the highway from the United States boundary to Edmonton and to extend hard surfacing to other branches of our growing network as rapidly as possible. Unfortunately, the war interrupted that program. Or, rather I should say, control of road building materials put a stop to our plans for the extension of our system of hard-surfaced highways. I have said many times, and I repeat, that there is something terribly wrong with the whole economic scheme which prevents road building in Alberta—the one community in the world most blessed with hard surfacing materials. There is enough bitumen in Alberta to hard surface all the roads and highways on the American continent. Despite what any Ottawa official may have to say about it, these materials could be put to use. Of course I refer to the oil sands of the Athabasca River Valley. All that stands in the way of using this huge reservoir of road paving material to provide Alberta with the finest highway system on the continent is the lack of money—which under our present system is always available in any quantity to destroy human life and wealth, but it always scarce for purposes which would add to human happiness or increase wealth.

DIFFICULTIES

However, though the difficulties created by the war have interrupted our hard-surfacing program, they have not blocked us in our determination to extend the secondary and district roads. You were surprised to learn, perhaps, that this year created a new all-time high for road building in this province. Well, in spite of the handicaps I have mentioned before, we graded no less than 2,000 miles and gravelled 650 miles of municipal and district roads. And we did not, for a moment, my friends. Our political opponents used to try to make you think that we were interested only in the highway between Calgary and Edmonton, that we were only trying to give service to the larger centres in the building of roads. You can see for yourself that this year alone we have graded in the rural districts exactly ten times the length of the highway from Calgary to Edmonton. We have gravelled district roads three times the length of the highway Edmonton highway. But that is not all. Grants to municipal districts have made it possible for extensive work to be done on market roads. This year alone your provincial government has spent no less than $951,000 on district roads and on grants to municipalities for the construction and maintenance of roads within their own territories. This is in addition to the work on the main highways—in addition to some 280 miles of grading and 345 miles of gravelling of main highways and over three quarters of a million dollars spent on maintenance work.

I think you will agree that this is a very splendid achievement under the present handicaps.

IN RETROSPECT

I wonder how people would like the prospect of going back to the old system of highway construction and maintenance of previous administrations with its grafts, its favoritism and waste. Do you realize, ladies and gentlemen, that the people of Alberta—and that means you—owe $44,000,000 on roads which no longer exist! They have been worn out and replaced. The roads have gone but the debt of $44,000,000 continues, and even at the present reduced interest rates is costing the taxpayers over $1,500,000 each year on that debt in perpetuity for generations to come unless we change this crazy financial system and clean up that debt. Yet the roads which were built with that $44,000,000 have ceased to exist. The asset has disappeared, while the liability hangs like a millstone around our necks.

When you consider the results we have achieved under our "pay-as-you-go" policy—when you consider that the fine highways built by this government over which you drive today have all been paid for, I am sure you would never wish to return to the old system.

ROAD GRANTS

The same applies to the government's policy in regard to road grants to municipalities. Under the old system, the government would build municipal roads and charge the cost back to the municipality over a period of years. This resulted in an impossible debt burden being put on local governments — debts which could never be paid in many cases. The policy of this government is to make outright grants to municipalities and to provide them with the technical help of the public works department. In addition we have been clearing up the old accumulated debts of the past. In the last year alone we have written off some $100,000 of such debts.

From what I have said, you will appreciate, ladies and gentlemen, that your government has a solid foundation for the extensive road-building program which will be required in the post-war development of our province. Moreover, we are making provision for the heavy demands in road building equipment which such a program will entail. A special reserve fund for this purpose is being built up.

In the field of municipal roads, the government's program of larger municipal units organized on the principle of the county system, will enable municipalities to procure the finest possible equipment and to use this to the greatest possible advantage. The government will also extend all the assistance it can from the department of public works and the system of grants to municipalities will be continued and, so far as revenue receipts make it possible, they will be extended to ensure that the farmers get the market roads so necessary to them.

In the very limited time I have had, it has been possible to give you only some of the highlights on this question. Your government has reason to be proud of its achievements in this field of highway and road construction—though nobody realizes better than I do that as much as we have been able to do, a great deal remains to be done. We face that task with complete confidence.

Bougainville Next Goal in Solomons

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Southwest Pacific, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Bougainville, strongly-held enemy island base at the northern end of the Solomons, apparently is the next major objective of United States forces clearing the Japanese from this island group in the South Pacific.

With its surrounding bases in the Buin-Faisi area, Bougainville is one of the last defensive islands in the perimeter the Nipponese have constructed around Rabaul, their strongpoint on New Britain, to the northwest. Unofficial estimates place the number of enemy troops on Bougainville at 40,000 to 50,000.

Complete control of the central and southern Solomons came with occupation of Kolombangara Island, announced yesterday by Allied headquarters.

It is regarded likely, Hipple reported, that the Japanese will make a strong stand at Bougainville. Bougainville, with its large airbase at Kahili on the south coast, and its harbor on the east coast at Kieta, is of great strategic importance. With it in Allied hands, a mighty pincers operation could be launched against Rabaul.

Bombers May Be Preparing Bigger Blows

By WALTER CRONKITE
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

LONDON, Oct. 12.—The lull in Anglo-American bombing offensive entered its second day today and observers speculated that the heavyweights of the R.A.F. R.C.A.F. and the U.S. Air Force might be regrouping and reorganizing for new and greater blows at Germany's industrial cities.

After pounding the Reich from end to end in 10 days and nights of the war's most intensive bombing, the Allied attack tapered off abruptly Sunday night, following the big American Flying Fortress raid on Poland and eastern Germany.

There were strong indications, however, that the respite enjoyed by Germany over the past 36 hours would be short.

That the latest series of heavy aerial bombardment was only a foretaste of a grand-scale pounding was suggested by Prime Minister Winston Churchill last night in messages of congratulation to the Allied air forces on their recent "magnificent achievements."

In a message to Air Marshal Sir Arthur T. Harris, chief of the R.A.F. bomber command, Churchill emphasized that the Allied aerial offensive has had the double effect of crippling German industrial power and forcing the Luftwaffe into a defensive battle.

German propagandists acknowledged this trend toward the defensive in their domestic radio broadcasts, and one Nazi commentator promised that "Germany will make rapid progress in re-establishing the control over German territory, and, in addition, master the entire situation."

Japs Heavily Hit On Wake Island

PEARL HARBOR, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Japanese positions on Wake Island were smashed heavily and more than 40 enemy planes were destroyed in a two-day bombing and shelling of Wake's three tiny atolls Tuesday and Wednesday, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander-in-chief of the United States Pacific fleet, reported.

Nimitz said the destruction on the enemy-held position in the central Pacific was wrought jointly by an aircraft-carrier task force and land-based navy heavy bombers.

The enemy apparently offered material aerial resistance to the initial attacks early Tuesday, which was made by a task force under the command of Rear Adm. Alfred E. Montgomery, Nimitz communique indicated.

More than 30 Japanese planes were destroyed in the air, and "we lost 13 planes in combat," Nimitz announced.

Allies Develop Balkan Blows On Big Scale

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, ALGIERS, Oct. 12.—(AP)—By land, air and sea the Allies have gradually developed an offensive in the Balkans until it has become a companion campaign to that in Italy.

With Allied air forces on both northwest Africa and the Middle East scorching the Germans in Greece, Crete and the Dodecanese Islands, and Greek and Yugoslav patriots battling them on land, the Balkan fighting today is more extensive than at any time since the British evacuated their expeditionary force in the spring of 1941.

At least a dozen German divisions are engaged in an effort to hold Italy in the dark and bloody mountains.

U.S. Industrialists Given Stiff Terms

CLEVELAND, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Federal district judge Emerich B. Freed yesterday sentenced the National Bronze & Aluminum Co., former president, John L. Schmeller, and the latter's two brothers, Edward and Frank, to 10 years each in a penitentiary after a jury convicted them of violating wartime sabotage laws. The jurist also imposed fines of $10,000 each on the three industrialists, refused to permit their release on bail, and denied motions for new trials.

Ranger Prospects Not Encouraging

WINNIPEG, Oct. 12.—(CP)—Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers National Hockey League Club, said on his arrival here Saturday that prospects for Rangers this season of "not very encouraging at present". Rangers and New York Rovers of the Eastern United States Amateur League need about 30 players, he said.

Here to open his pre-season training camp, Patrick said the ice lanes said that only two regular Rangers will be back—defenceman Ott Heller and forward Grant Warwick.

Approximately 30 players will attend the camp, officially opening Thursday. Some players, however, will practice and limber up at the Amphitheatre rink early this week.

Patrick said he is not interested in any player who doesn't possess a passport, necessary to perform across the international boundary.

Town Planning Commission Opposes Recreational Hall

Site of $90,000 Building Wanted for Civic Centre Council Told in Protest

Opposition by the Edmonton Town Planning Commission to the erection of a $90,000 recreational hall, to be operated by the American Red Cross, at the intersection of 100 street and 103 avenue, has necessitated the submission by the city commissioners of this project to the city council for authorization of building restrictions, and the confirmation of the proposal.

The property is owned by the Dominion government, and a lease on two further lots has been taken by the government west of the property for the purpose of constructing a temporary building to be occupied by the United Services Organization.

The premises now operated by the U.S.O. is stated to be too small, and it is pointed out that any services provided will be open to uniformed members of both Canadian and the United States forces.

OBJECTIONS STATED

The Town Planning Commission is objecting to the erection of the building on the ground that this area has been set aside as a civic centre, and if buildings such as that proposed are to be erected without any reference to the commission, it might be just as well to disband it.

H. Milton Martin, chairman of the commission, states in his letter of protest, "if the Dominion government had been told of other plans for the civic centre that it would have assented to an alternative proposition. There is so much city-owned property that I can see no good excuse for permitting the proposed recreation hall being placed where it is now intended."

M. A. Dewar, assistant city architect and building inspector, states in the commissioners' report that the American authorities have endeavored to get some other central site for this building in order to avoid embarrassment in the waiving of city bylaws, but have been unable to obtain an alternative site suitable for their purpose.

It is proposed that this building should be ready for occupancy by Christmas and council is asked to give an early decision confirming the proposed location and in waiving of building restrictions.

C.C.F. Policies Are Condemned By Macdonnell

Members of trade unions will shun socialism, the doctrine of the C.C.F., when they come to realize what it really means, J. M. Macdonnell, K.C., prominent Toronto business man, stated at a meeting of the executives of the Progressive Conservative party organizations held at the Macdonald hotel on Saturday.

Trade unions under socialism would be abolished by the state, or would be permitted to exist as they were in Italy as the stooges of the state. There would be no independence for trade unions under socialism, their interests could not be maintained under a socialistic government as they could under a parliamentary democracy, Mr. Macdonnell stated.

Mr. Macdonnell, president of the National Trust Company, took a prominent part in the Port Hope conference last year, and later attended the national convention at which John Bracken was elected leader of the Progressive Conservative party.

He said that the party was on the march, but it was necessary to satisfy the "man on the street" that the party was interested in him. The platform adopted at Winnipeg was evidence of this, he added, and said that without that platform the party would not have got John Bracken as leader.

He said that John Bracken, leader of the party elected at the Winnipeg convention, has won the admiration and confidence of the people of Eastern Canada both in the cities and throughout the rural areas.

He said that socialism cannot exist within a parliamentary democracy, and quoted the writings of G. B. Shaw, Harold Laski, G. H. D. Cole and the late Mrs. Sidney Webb in support of this assertion. He said that Mrs. Webb had stated that under socialism only one political party would be necessary.

"After the experience of Germany and Italy we all know what one party means," Mr. Macdonell stated. "It is tyranny." He stressed that under socialism trade unions would cease to exist, or best would become the stooges of government as was the case in Italy under Mussolini.

URGES GROUPS

He urged the party adherents here to form study groups to ascertain the true import of the C.C.F. platform, adding that when the young people of Canada are fully aware of its implications they will have nothing to do with it.

Under socialism we will have to live a regimented and controlled life where thrift and enterprise have no special reward, Mr. Macdonnell stated.

Plan to Enlarge District For Two-Year Trial

Municipal districts of Leslie, Westock, Eagle, The Pines, Norma, Sobor and Ukraine will amalgamate into one enlarged municipal district for a two-year trial period, Hon. C. E. Gerhart, minister of municipal affairs, announced Tuesday.

The minister said assurances had been given by the government to member municipalities of the new district that if it proves to be too cumbersome an area or of an inconvenient shape for ratepayers, it will be divided at the end of the trial period.

A large delegation from the municipal districts affected conferred Saturday with Mr. Gerhart, when plans were discussed for the new set-up. Accompanying the delegation were William Tomyn, Social Credit M.L.A. for Willingdon, and Floyd M. Baker, Social Credit M.L.A. for Clover Bar.

Tentative name for the new enlarged unit is Municipal District of Eagle.

Ask Reduction Amount of Coal For Winter Use

Residents of Alberta, in common with the rest of Canada, are going to be asked to use four instead of the normal five tons of coal burned during the winter Mr. Justice C. C. McLaurin, Calgary, coal controller for Alberta, stated on his arrival here Monday to survey the coal and wood situation in Edmonton and district.

He said that the overall supply situation was still unchanged, and consumers will not be able to pick their coal but must take their supplies from the nearest producing point. Mr. Justice McLaurin stated.

He said that a conference of coal controllers and other executive officers was held at Calgary during the week-end at which the supply situation was thoroughly canvassed.

Attending this conference were: Sidney E. Smith, president, Manitoba University, Winnipeg, Manitoba; Mr. Justice Donald Maclean controller for Saskatchewan; Mr. Justice McLaurin, and Lawrence Killam, controller for British Columbia. Executive officers attending were: W. J. Taylor, Calgary, allocation officer, E. T. Marshall, allocation officer at Vancouver, and J. S. Whalley, Ottawa, Dominion fuel and wood controller.

Mr. Justice McLaurin stated that as far as Alberta is concerned that in the event of distress in any community the appeal for emergency assistance must be made by municipal authorities to the allocation officer at Calgary.

He said it was not the intention of the regional coal representative to disturb the existing machinery set up by the city here when the emergency arose last winter. This machinery, he said, tided over the crisis last year and seems destined to meet problems as they may arise this year.

Picking green peas from one's own back garden on Oct. 10 may seem a little out of season, but Mrs. A. F. Dunlop, of 11924 80 street, reports the peas are of very fine quality. Mrs. Dunlop was delayed in planting her garden and planted the peas in July. Until the nice weather of the last few weeks she was afraid they would not mature before freeze-up time. Now she has harvested a nice crop of green peas which are well filled out and fully matured.

Maximum retail prices for millwork shipped or to be shipped from any lumberyard, warehouse or other place of delivery in the cities of Edmonton and Calgary are established by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board by order effective on Tuesday. Price listings in detail released to the trade, apply to doors, window frames, sash and mouldings. For any millwork not listed in the printed schedule the Board announces that a retailer may add a 40 per cent. mark-up to his cost price. Charged with manslaughter, Mrs. Bernice LaPage, Edmonton, went on trial in supreme court Tuesday before Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald. The hearing is proceeding. Air Force Vet Is Stationed at City "M" Depot

Cpl. V. G. Stevens, A.F.M., of Kirkland Lake, Ont., who recently arrived at No. 3 "M" Depot from the west coast has seen service with the R.C.A.F. and R.A.F. all the way from Iceland to the Aleutians.

He was with the R.A.F. at the time the great German battleship Bismarck was sunk and flew with the protecting brood of aircraft that hovered above the now historic Atlantic Conference.

Cpl. Stevens is a wireless operator.

The citation for his decoration reads:

"Devotion in duty, coolness and courage under extreme hardship." It was won during operations on the eastern Canadian coast.

Although he had many narrow escapes the one that stands out in his mind is the time a sergeant begged him to trade "shifts", because the former wanted to go to a dance in the evening. The trade was made. The sergeant never came back.

Cpl. Stevens is on his way to a bombing and gubnery school to study for a commission.

THE QUESTION

"School days, school days; dear old golden rule days." How do you feel about the return to classes after three long months of vacation?

THE ANSWERS

NORMAN DOBELL, student: I'm glad it's starting. I've liked school ever since I started, and I didn't like so long a holiday.

* * *

MRS. S. PORAYKO, former teacher: Three months' vacation is far too long. Children get out of practise. They don't know what to do with themselves. Mothers, generally, don't like their children to keep out of school too long.

* * *

E. A. SMITH, farmer: I'm from a district where our school hasn't opened yet, simply because we have not been able to get a teacher. The youngsters have got beyond the stage where they're tired of school—they're tired of not being in school. It does seem strange, but it seems a short holiday is better than a long one, many youngsters inform me.

Edmonton's Jewry Honors Those in Armed Forces

Five hundred members of Edmonton's Jewry paid tribute to the sons and daughters of the 250 Jewish families in the city who have enlisted in the Canadian Armed Forces at a service held Sunday afternoon at the Talmud Torah Hall, 103 street, at which an honor roll containing the names of the 165 city Jews, who have left here to serve their King and country, was unveiled.

Unveiling the honor roll, H. A. Friedman, K.C., said that on the roll were the names of 165 of our finest young men, as well as the names of a number of our young women.

"We call this an honor roll, but it is not we who are honoring them, it is they who have brought great honor to us."

EXTEND SYMPATHY

"To the parents of those who we already know will not return and to their relatives we extend our deepest sympathy, and bring to them such consolation as we are able to offer."

"They gave their lives so that you and I am all mankind could live our lives in freedom. Not under the heel of a dictator, nor the slaves of some master race, but as free people equal before the law the same as all men are equal before God."

"Whether we will achieve what they died for time alone will disclose. That final victory will be ours no one doubts, and we dedicate ourselves and all we possess to that end. We know our enemies will be defeated and forced to surrender unconditionally and on our terms.

"That in itself is well worth fighting for. We will have won a great victory over our enemies and the right to live what has been termed our way of life.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Faithless Mate Wants Divorce From Good Wife

Pretty Girl Underestimates Young Man's Love for His Wife and Baby Despite Agreeable and Pleasant Home Conditions

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married three years and have a very fine wife and a baby daughter, who mean more to me than anything else, but I have fallen in love with a young lady and can't get her out of my mind. Maybe I don't want to as much as I think I do. My wife and I have talked of getting a divorce, but if I do I don't know whether the girl will have me or not. She says it is my duty to stay with my baby and wife. That is right, but why stay together and be miserable?

I understand that if my wife and I separate it will change my draft classification, but this doesn't bother me, for if I could see this other girl while I am here I will be satisfied. But, on the other hand, I still care for my wife and I love my baby a bit more than I want to admit. Please tell me what to do. A MIXED UP HUSBAND.

DEAR MISS DIX: I have seen the letter that my husband has written to you. Here is my side of the case: My husband says he loves me, but he says he loves this other girl just as much, so much that he can't forget her. Now it is a hell more than life itself, but I don't want a man who wants someone else. I don't believe it is my fault that my husband has been attracted to another woman. I have had a baby for him. I am as good-looking as I was when we were married. I am a good housekeeper and manager. I have a college education, so I am not a dumbbell.

I can make my own living. I hate the thought of separation and I know that divorce is hard on the child, but living with a philanderer husband will make our home a hell on earth. I have tried to reason with my husband, but he says he is so mixed up he doesn't know what he wants. However, I have asked him to make up his mind, for if he wants a divorce, the sooner, the better, so I can go to work and try to forget him.

My husband's parents love me as much as they do their own children, and if he leaves me they will never forgive him. What should we do? A WORRIED WIFE.

Answer: If these two letters from a husband and a wife don't present the modernistic attitude towards divorce, I don't know anything that does. Here we have the picture of a wishy-washy husband who is typical of about nine-tenths of the philanderers, who is so emotionally unstable that he doesn't know even what he wants in a woman. He has no fault to find with his wife. He really loves her in his way. Only he wants a change. And he isn't even sure that he will like the other woman any better when he gets her than he does his current mate.

There are a lot of men like that. They belong in the same class with the men who are always trading in their automobiles for a new model because they have seen one with some sort of a new gadget or whose paint they like better, but they certainly do hate to part with the old one. And when they get the new one they don't like it any better than they did the old one, and the swap has cost them a lot of money.

It is impossible for that type of man to be faithful to any woman, no matter if she were Miss America and possessed every charm and virtue on earth. He wanders from one to another and in and out of the divorce court and the marriage license bureau, until he is too old and rheumatic to chase skirts any longer. Polygamy is this kind of man's dish, and it is a pity he can't live in a country where husbands can have as large an assortment of wives as they do of neckties.

The wife, in this case, is a strong, sensible woman who takes a sane view of her husband and her situation. Evidently she perceives his weakness and knows he will never be faithful to her, but for some reason or other she still loves him. With Audrey she says "a poor thing, but mine own." But she doesn't propose to go partners in him with other ladies.

So she puts him on the spot and wants him to make his choice. But the poor weakling can't do it because he doesn't know which one he likes the better. And in the end the wife will have to decide the question of whether she would rather have a part-time husband, or a divorce and a full-time job. And my guess is that she will get tired of forgiving and take the job.

BOY IN NAVY

Dear Dorothy Dix: My son, who is under draft age, talked me into letting him enlist in the Naval Reserve. I understood he would be in training school for quite some time before being sent away, but he has already been moved to Pearl Harbor. I am told there is a Federal penalty attached to falsifying one's age when enlisting and I do not know whether to enforce this and try to have him brought back or not. My husband, the boy's stepfather, is in the Navy also and says leave him alone, but anxiety about him is about to kill me. I am a sick woman anyway, and worrying over him is making me lose all I have gained after a year of building up. I can't eat or sleep.

The boy writes that he is very happy and alright and likes it. He says he hated going to school and is now doing just what he wants to do. What would you do if you were me?

MRS. N. H.

Answer: I'd do nothing. If you make any move to get him out of the Navy you will make great trouble for him. The boy must have a lot of grit and stamina to do what he has done, or you never can trust him to take care of himself.

It is hard on all mothers to have their boys in the war, but yours is in no more danger than all the balance. All you can do is to meet the situation with courage and be proud you have a boy who is brave enough and patriotic enough to want to risk his life for his country.

WANTS TO MARRY

Dear Miss Dix: I have a daughter of 21 who insists on getting married to a boy who is about to be called to the Service. I have told her every way in the world to persuade her to wait until after the war, but she says that if I don't give my consent she will run away and marry, anyway. She has known this boy for a long time and he is a very fine chap. No objection on that score. But people tell me I shouldn't allow her to marry now. Have I done right in agreeing to it?

WORRIED MOTHER.

Answer: How can you help it when she is 21 and doesn't need your consent? All parents can do under such circumstances is to say, "God bless you," and hope for the best.

A special drawer, section of a drawer or a rack should be provided for knives. Knives and other sharp tools are involved in 14 per cent of the home accidents in the United States. Make all cutting strokes away from your body and when passing a sharp knife to another person, hold the blade with the dull side toward the palm of your hand.

Points For Parents

By EDYTH THOMAS WALLACE

Father: "Come, Son, we'll take the airplane back. When you got Jimmie to trade it for some candy you took advantage of his being too young to know what it was worth."

Father: "Mother, I believe our son's going to be a rich man some day. He always gets the best of the other boys in a trade. Look at this fine plane he got for some candy."

Whether a child becomes an honest business man or an unscrupulous one may depend upon the way his parents guide his childhood transactions.

War Kitchen

By GAYNOR MADDOX

The human engine needs as much good nourishment the beginning of the week as it does at the end of the week. Therefore plan your meals just as carefully, even though you will use left-overs and probably want to make the kitchen work as easy as possible.

NOODLES WITH LEFT-OVER CHICKEN AND GRAVY

(Serves 4 to 6)

Two cups uncooked wide noodles, boiling salted water, 1 cup Blend Flour and fat, add the green pepper, then the gravy, the chicken stock and chopped left-over chicken. Slowly bring to boil, stirring constantly. Season. Add noodles and pour into greased baking dish. Top with buttered bread cubes. Bake 25 minutes in moderate oven (350 degrees F.).

Sweet potatoes are both plentiful and nutritionally important. Use them to make a rich surprise dessert for dinner.

SWEET POTATO PUDDING

Two tablespoons fat, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup corn syrup or cane sugar syrup, ½ orange juice and grated rind; 2 cups mashed sweet potatoes, 1 or 2 eggs, ½ cup milk.

Add fat, salt, syrup, orange juice, grated rind to hot mashed potatoes. Add beaten egg yolks and milk. Beat well. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into greased baking dish and bake slowly, about 30 minutes in slow oven (300 degrees F.) until puddink sets.

SWEET POTATO PIE

Use recipe for pudding. Pour the filling into pastry-lined pie tin. Bake in medium hot oven (400 degrees F.) about 30 minutes, or until filling sets and crust is done.

Tomorrow's Menu

(Eat the Basic 7 Every Day)

BREAKFAST: Orange juice, oatmeal, raisin toast, butter, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Noodles with left-over chicken and gravy, spinach and lettuce salad, whole wheat bread, butter, pears, tea, milk.

DINNER: Fried pork chops, cream gravy, brown rice, spinach, raw carrot sticks, enriched bread, butter, sweet potato pudding, coffee, milk.

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

HYDE PARK—I am now concluding my recollections of my trip to the South Pacific. I am sorry I have not been able to identify all of the islands that I visited, many of them so very small that they look, even on a huge map, like pin points. The identity of these islands is kept secret for security reasons, but I tried to visit every spot where our soldiers were stationed.

My first impression of the Pacific Ocean was that it was a wonderful blue, with, near the shore, bits of water like a dark green emerald. The first islands I saw had fairly high mountains, green fields, and dazzling white beaches. Here and there the shores were rocky with water swirling over them and occasional seed which reminded me of the coast of Maine. Little white clouds floated around us in our airplane, but did not obscure our view of the ocean.

The world is a small place or, at least, the U.S.A. is. One boy who was on our plane for a little while, told me he came from Oklahoma and remembered my coming to speak at a college near his home when he was in high school. Since then, he was a pilot for Braniff Airlines, until he joined the army. He says he has seen a good bit of the world but not all of it. He evidently means to keep right on till he does.

Another youngster came from Yonkers, and said he had often passed through Hyde Park on his way back to school. Somehow, when you are away from home and meet someone who knows your part of the country, you feel you know them right off and talk flows easily.

On the first island visited, we ate breakfast under a thick green bower and I was struck with the brilliant color of the flowers. The houses seemed close to the ground and almost a part of the outdoors. Birds were plentiful and unafraid. I had never been given a whole pineapple before, and when the top was removed it was full of a variety of cut up fruits. I enjoyed it and felt very extravagant and could not help thinking what such a profusion of fruit would mean to anyone in Great Britain today, or for that matter in any of the northern or central countries of Europe.

When I first saw one of the islands which our men now occupy, I confess I felt that a fair sized wave would wash over it with great ease. From the air it is impossible to realize what you will find on the ground. Once landed, I found that the island contained several lagoons of various size and color. Some are a deep green, some a lighter green, some red. The men may swim in the lagoons, but not outside, since there are treacherous ocean currents. There is much routine work for the men to do. For free time the most exciting sport is fishing, and this is real fishing on big fish, the kind my husband enjoys. They need more heavy fishing gear, so if you have any you are not using, get in touch with the Red Cross and let them have it for use out here. The men want most I told, "a chance to go home on leave, letters from home, good movies, music, news, sports."

Your Baby And Mine

The first bed for baby will be a bassinet or something very similar in the form of a clothes basket. Either one should be large enough so the growing baby has room to stretch arms and legs without battering them against the sides.

For my money, the bassinet or clothes basket should have one or two coats of flat paint in any soft, pastel shade or white, and a finishing coat of dullish enamel. This makes a good-looking bed which stays good-looking as long as the baby uses it. Those with frills and plaited coverings look beautiful but rapidly grow wilted and frumpish.

The baby's own dainty comforts and blankets in pale colors and perhaps two stunning satin bows at each handle will make any bassinet, however simply decorated, look good enough to eat.

No pillow, is needed for the bassinet, just a thick, soft pad which fits, a wet-resistant protector for the pad and a fitted or quilted cotton pad over this. The sheets may well be squares cut from aging larger sheets, for this bed will hardly be used beyond the third month and one can economize by using the good portions of old sheets for this bassinet and buy new, crib-sized sheets for the bed which comes later.

The bassinet may fit the baby's length after his third month, but an active baby constantly is pushing up and banging his head on the top of the basket as well as hurting his hands when he flings them around, as babies do.

When the real crib is purchased it should be one large enough to accommodate the baby until his fourth or fifth year. It, too, will need a thick, well-made mattress with wet-resistant mattress protector and quilted pad over this. The crib blankets and comforts used for the bassinet will fit even better in this larger bed. Until the child asks for a pillow, which will not be for several years, he is better off sleeping flat on the mattress.

Most children who never know pillows will have none of them, but if they desire one, it is all right to provide a soft, flat pillow at about four years of age.

Miss V. McCrum, John Delany Are Married at Holy Trinity

A week-end wedding of interest in musical and Little Theatre circles in Edmonton, took place Saturday at 8 p.m. in Holy Trinity church, when Miss Violet Emelia McCrum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McCrum, became the bride of John Perdue Delany, son of Mrs. J. S. Delany, all of Edmonton. The Rev. W. M. Nainby officiated.

Altar and chancel rail of the church were arranged with bouquets of copper colored chrysanthemums.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride made a pretty picture in her gown of floor length white georgette, styled on Grecian lines, with a full skirt and wrist length sleeves. Her veil of silk net cascaded from a wreath of white flowers and she carried a bridal bouquet of pink carnations. Lace mitts to match her ensemble, added the finishing touches.

Miss Beatrice McCrum was her sister's only attendant. She chose a gown of pastel blue chiffon, tea length, and styled like the bride's except for a long sleeved jacket to match. Deep pink carnations comprised her bouquet, and she wore a crown model hat of blue, trimmed with ruching in a lace effect.

Best man was Ralph Birdman, and ushers included Richard McCrum and Kenneth Pennifold, R.C.A.F.

Herbert Wild was at the consol of the organ.

RECEPTION IS HELD

A reception to 40 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, 10040 87 avenue. Mrs. McCrum, receiving with the wedding party, wore an afternoon dress of moss green, hat to match, and corsage of Talisman roses. Mrs. Delany was smart in a cut crepe ensemble of blue, black hat, and red roses en corsage.

A. W. Harley of Welland, Ont., uncle of the bride, proposed a toast to the bride.

The couple took a wedding trip to Banff. For travelling the bride wore an ensemble of British tan, including a top coat and accessories to match.

They will make their home in Edmonton.

The bridegroom is well known in musical and Little Theatre circles in the city. He has been featured in several theatrical productions arranged by the Edmonton Little Theatre and held at the Empire Theatre in recent years.

Cook-Sorenson Nuptials Held

A bridal arch of fern and autumn flowers formed the setting for the marriage recently of Miss Anna Therese Sorenson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sorensen of Edmonton, and Pilot Officer Jack Cook of Wetaskiwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Koch of Assiniboia, Sask. The marriage, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, was solemnized by the Rev. Milton Johnson.

Entering the room on the arm of her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of frost-white sheer, styled with softly shirred bodice corded appliqué fitted waistline, bishop sleeves and bouffant skirt. Her chapel veil was held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms. She wore a gold locket, gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of American beauty roses.

As matron of honor, Mrs. Gordon Olson wore a frock of heavenly blue with pink carnations and white stephanotis en corsage.

Best man was Sigurd Sorenson. Mrs. Milton Johnson played the wedding march and during the signing of the register Mrs. Archibald Hardy sang "Because".

The reception rooms were bright with sweetpeas, gladioli and autumn flowers. To receive, Mrs. Sorenson, the bride's mother, wore a dressmaker suit of navy blue and a corsage of deep red roses.

A three-tiered wedding cake enobled in tulle centred the bride's table which was set with a lace cloth and decorated with tall wax tapers and sweetpeas.

F. Nelson proposed the toast to the bride.

Mrs. Sigurd Sorensen poured coffee, assisted by Miss Alice and Miss Dorothy Krebs.

Leaving on their wedding trip to Winnipeg, the bride wore a frock in autumn gold with a blue plaid topcoat and accessories in gold and brown.

WEEKLY WARTIME FOOD HINTS

Martha Logan, Swift's famed Home Economist, whose weekly cooking column is a regular feature of this page. Look for these valuable hints every Tuesday

by Martha Logan

Simmering's the Secret

You get the most from meats in groups C and D by slow, moist cooking

For instance, try SAVOURY STEW WITH VEGETABLES:—

The bones in meats give extra value in meat stews. These extend the appetizing meat flavour and make the most of its nutritional essentials by combining with other foods.

Meat stew is a time saver, too. It is as good, or better, served the second day—may be cooked at any time and reheated at the dinner hour. Wide variation can be obtained by different seasonings and different combinations of vegetables.

SEVEN TIPS FOR STEWS

1. Cut meat into uniform pieces.
2. Coat with well seasoned flour.
3. Brown meat in fat.
4. Add just enough liquid (water, vegetable stock, tomato juice) to cover meat.
5. Cover closely and cook at simmering temperature. Never boil.
6. Add vegetables just long enough before serving to cook.
7. Arrange attractively on platter or in casserole.

2 lbs. stew meat (Beef, Veal or Lamb)
¼ cup flour
1½ tsps. salt
½ tsp. pepper
2 tbsps. dripping
2 onions chopped
2 cups tomatoes
3 cups boiling water
2 bay leaves
4 stalks celery cut in 1" pieces
1 green pepper diced
4 carrots sliced
Potatoes quartered as required.

Cut meat in small cubes, roll in flour seasoned with salt and pepper, brown in hot fat with the chopped onions. Add bay leaves, tomatoes and boiling water. Simmer with bones if they came with the meat for 1 to 2 hours. Remove bones, and add celery, green pepper and carrots, and potatoes. Simmer till vegetables are done. Serves 6 to 8.

In Memoriam 7

IN loving memory of our dear son and brother, Sgt. Herbert G. Hicks, who was killed on active service, Oct. 10, 1942.
The right stream of life goes on.
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the tone, the smile,
All you, who once sat there.
—Ever remembered by Father, Mother and Brother.

IN loving memory of Mrs. Martha (Albert) Colley who departed this life, Oct. 11, 1941.
A beautiful memory dearer than gold.
A mother who's love can never be sold.
A life of suffering, patience and love,
God grant you happiness in heaven above.
—Sadly missed by her loving Husband and Family.

U.S.A. Doctor Gives Address New York Meet

Lt. Col. Harry E. Wright, who is in charge of the new preventive medicine branch at the U.S. Army Base Hospital here, is in New York City delivering a paper on the prevelance of typhus fever in the United States.

He is speaking before the American Public Health Association, which is holding its annual convention at the Hotel Pennsylvania.

Doctors at the hospital here said that Col. Wright, who is an authority on epidemiology, will discuss the possibility of typhus spreading under war time conditions, particularly in the southern States.

People are inclined to think of typhus as occurring only in Oriental countries, but it was pointed out that in time of war it is liable to assume epidemic proportions. To combat the spread of the disease it is important that sanitation and hygiene be maintained.

This year the meeting of the American Public Health Association is limited to those public health men who are engaged in war activities. Only specialists in their particular fields are present.

Col. Wright whose home is in Dallas, Texas, has made an extensive study of tropical diseases, and is a well known authority on preventive medicine.

River Boats Make Last Trip of Year

Northern Transportation Company's river boats are making their last trip of the season to Smith and McMurray, according to Gilbert LaBine, Toronto, president of the company and vice-president of El Dorado mine, who arrived in Edmonton Tuesday on his way north.

Mr. LaBine said he was making the trip to plan for next year's operations, which, he said, would be on an improved scale in comparison with the 1943 work.

He said that a large amount of supplies would be purchased in Edmonton for shipment north for next year.

Montreal & Toronto

MONTREAL, Oct. 12.—(CP)—Quebec Utilities were easier in trading up to the final hour on the stock exchange and curb market today in duplication of easier trends initiated last week when the provincial public service board announced a formula for reduced rates for Montreal Light, Heat and Power Consolidated. Trends in other sections of the marts were mixed.

Maximum Prices For Cuts of Lamb Are Set by Board

OTTAWA, Oct. 12.—(CP)— The Prices Board today issued an order establishing maximum prices which retailers may charge for cuts of lamb.

Board officials said the maximum prices generally will be "slightly lower" than in the past. The order covers the period between Oct. 18 and the end of this year.

The board said in its statement that a similar system is already "working satisfactorily" for beef and that "steps are being taken to extend it to veal and pork."

Rye Futures Move To Higher Ground

WINNIPEG, Oct. 12 — (CP) — Rye futures moved into higher ground today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and at the close values were ⅛ to ¼ cent a bushel higher. October posted a new seasonal high during the session by touching $1.08⅜.

There was little outside interest in the market as United States markets were closed in observance of the Columbus Day holiday. Trade was small and the pit was deserted for long periods. Some local and commission house buying was reported in early stages of the session and values were strong in sympathy with advances in Chicago rye positions yesterday.

No important bupsiness was uncovered in cash coarse grains but the United States Commodity Credit Corporation was reported to have taken approximately 300,000 bushels of No. 3 Northern wheat during the week-end to fill vessel space.

Country wheat marketings Saturday amounted to 637,000 bushels compared with 2,892,000 bushels last year.

Errand for Q-74

By MALCOM TAYLOR

THE STORY: Capt. Raymond Imhof, Q-74, U.S. Army Intelligence, has been assigned to follow clewtrail of Exnell, Q-48, leading to certain important information which Exnell has been unable to bring out of Germany. R.A.F. Pilot-Officer Danforth is to fly Imhof for a parachute drop over enemy territory. Danforth is inexplicably delayed at the take-off but dashes up at the last minute.

CHAPTER V

IN less time than seemed possible the human projectile shot in again, not so slender now in complete flying gear.

The two men bolted out into the night, jumped into a car and raced to the plane that waited, all warmed up, with propeller idling.

They had been too busy to talk much, but when they were well away and climbing fast Imhof asked curiously:

"What held you up?"

"Motorbike broke down. Deserted heath. Couldn't get to a phone or find a car. Terribly sorry," came the laconic explanation."

Around 3,000 feet, they broke through the ceiling of cloud into the light of a quarter moon, now sinking low in the west. The plane continued in its long climb.

On approaching 10,000 feet, Imhof was almost startled by hearing a voice in his earphones. In the long silence, he had nearly forgotten that he was not alone.

"Better connect up your oxygen pipe," said Danforth.

Presently the pilot pointed to where, through a large gap in the flooring of cloud, two shadowy masses of differing darkness met each other in a long looping line.

"The coast," Imhof heard.

In a moment more they were over the sea and the shoreline slipped underneath.

"Keep your eyes open for a bomber below," came through the intercom.

They circled, no longer climbing, but Imhof failed to see a single plane.

"There's one!" said Danforth suddenly, pointing.

"A Lancaster," the pilot identified. "She's still climbing. We'll go with her."

"Good thing for us they know we're not Nazis," said Imhof.

"They know what we're hanging 'round for," said Danforth. "All the Essex stationed bombers in their wave were informed about us. I'll signal them. Check your belt."

Imhof checked and the plane flipped over, corkscrewed through a roll, straightened out, then corkscrewed through another in the reverse direction. The Lancaster wiggled her wings decorously and greetings thus exchanged, both planes flew on, preserving a sort of unorthodox formation.

The flight proceeded uneventfully for some half an hour more. Then—

"Nazi night fighter off port bow, lower down," Danforth announced. "Hope they see him on the Lanc."

Alert and tense, Imhof watched to see what the Nazi would do. He was coming up fast.

"They see him! Look!" Danforth cried.

Imhof looked and saw the Lancaster flip over, sheer away and power-dive into a cloud below.

"Nice work," Danforth chuckled.

Instinctively, the Nazi nosed down to go after the bomber, then, realizing he had lost her, quickly nosed up again to attack the observation plane.

To Imhof's surprise, Danforth swung straight in the direction of the enemy, putting the plane into a steep climb.

The Nazi started to spiral up in steep, climbing turns that would bring him up in time to close with his quarry. Just as he swung into the third ring of the spiral and headed away at right angles to the observation plane's line of flight, Danforth acted.

"Hang on to your hat," he laughed, and put the plane into a screaming power-dive behind the Nazi's tail.

The surprised Nazi could only swerve, describing a considerable arc. Then he lined up again and plummeted in pursuit. But before he could get in range the observation plane knifed into a cloud.

Danforth marked time by flying around inside the cloud a while, then shot out into the clear. Imhof studied the sky on all sides, but saw no sign of the Nazi.

"I suppose we've lost the Lancaster for good," Imhof said regretfully.

"Oh, definitely," was the unworried reply. "But we'll get on all right without her. I took a compass reading of her course immediately I spotted that Jerry."

Imhof felt somewhat uneasy. "I hope you're a good navigator," was all he said.

"Shan't need to be," was the cheerful comeback. "If we come within 50 miles of Coblenz, we'll see it. You're forgetting the fires."

Suddenly to starboard a jagged starfish of flame sprang into being, tore a ragged fiery hole in the darkness and vanished. Immediately after a second starfish rayed out jut underneath.

Ack-ack.

The plane shot upward, as if blown higher by an explosion, then fell off to one side in a sort of sideslip and dive combined.

Then, as the starfishes multiplied, began a mad, jinking progress, the plane climbing and diving, leaping and falling away, zigzagging and weaving and twisting. The pilot was throwing her about to keep the ground gunners from taking sure aim.

After some 15 minutes of this drunken progress, he pointed to a faint patch of redish glow ahead.

In a comparatively short time Imhof and Danforth were circling, high over Coblenz, watching the bombers going into action lower down.

McCoy Health Service

First on the list as a cause of death in America and Canada, the disease costing more lives than any other, public health enemy number one—yes, it is heart disease.

It is estimated that thousands of lives could be saved each year from this great killer, for to a great extent it is a preventable disease, especially in its early stages. Unfortunately ignorance on the part of the patient and delay in securing the advice of a physician play an important part in contributing to the increasing number of deaths from heart disease.

In a recent column I emphasized the necessity of at least a yearly physical examination, and perhaps no part of the examination is more important than the check-up on the heart, for many times insidious heart disease may be recognized by the doctor, even when there are no manifest symptoms. On the other hand, an individual may complain of a rapid heart beat, too slow a beat or irregularity of the beat, or palpitation. All of these may mean some heart disorder, and then again they may be only symptomatic of a functional disorder and there may be no actual disease present. However, whatever the cause, a visit to your doctor is your best insurance. There may be no other symptoms obvious to the patient, excepting that he gets all out of breath when climbing stairs or running for a street car, or there may be dizziness or a slight puffiness of the ankles.

Patients who know already that they are suffering from a heart ailment are inclined to think too much about it and to take life so easily that they actually make their condition worse through insufficient exercise. It should always be remembered that the heart is a muscular organ, and that muscles improve with exercise. The other extreme is too much exercise, which is as bad or worse than not enough. Exercise such as walking is good, providing it is not carried to the point of fatigue and under a proper dietary and exercising regimen, many sufferers are enabled to live almost a normal span of life, or they may eventually die of some other disease not related to their heart condition.

Quite often a patient is frightened into thinking that he has a heart disorder, when in reality, he is suffering from a digestive disorder which is easily corrected by the proper diet.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

What To Do

You have sent off your gifts for Christmas to the men in the Army overseas—and the Navy gifts must be in the mail before October 15—but how about the men in service who are stationed in this country?

Give some special thought to the gifts you send them. Make this year's gift the best over, but make it useful too. A set of military brushes is an excellent choice, and a favorite when he sees foreign service. Pen and pencil sets are popular, wallets and money belts very much appreciated. A miniature picture goes over big and it is something that will fit into his kit when he goes abroad.

Whatever you do, don't forget your friends in the Service at Christmas time. Send them cards too, it brings home closer when they are so far away.

Briercrest Saddle Club Gymkhana Is Enjoyed by 1,500 Spectators

Union Jacks and American flags were crossed at the stadium of the Edmonton Saddle Club when the Briercrest Saddle Club, under the auspices of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Loyal Edmonton Regiment held a gymkhana, Sunday afternoon attended by approximately 1,500 spectators.

Opened by Maj-Gen. W. A. Griesbach, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., V.D., the program commenced with a parade led by Lt.-Col. R. W. Hale, M.C., E.D., officer commanding the 2nd (Reserve) Battalion of the regiment followed by Mrs. William Greaves, director of the Briercrest Saddle Club and the fall riding class, some of whom have been on a horse only a few times. There were 80 riders and 70 horses participating in the show.

GIVE DEMONSTRATIONS

During the performance "Bill" Columbo illustrated to the audience, "how not to mount a horse" and Miss Paddy Crawford, one of the younger members of the club, who was mounted on Goldi, demonstrated "how to mount bare back" by the simple method of mounting the horse while it was kneeling.

Another point of interest which attracted many an eye for amusement and skill of the rider, Kenneth Petcha of the U.S. Army Signal Corps, who despite losing his bridle, managed to remain on his horse and still wear his boots at the end of an 18 minute struggle in the Cowboy Tag Race.

Twenty-seven member participated in the Briercrest Musical Moments of the show under the supervision of Mrs. Greaves and true to the motto of the day, finished in a V for Victory formation at the end of their routine.

Kinney Tide, mascot of the club was ridden by Mrs. Greaves, both in harness and in saddle, and last but not least accompanying Mrs. Greaves along with Fay Ingles, Janet Vanouse and Pattie Crawford in the harness ride, was "Butch" the Boston Bull terrier.

The band of the 2nd (Reserve) Battalion The Loyal Edmonton Regiment under the direction of Sgt.-Maj. Graydon Tipp played during the afternoon.

Maj. W. C. Roberts, Lord Strathcona Horse, was the judge and ring master was Bill Matthews assisted by George Keltie. Mickey Ryan provided ponies for the children to ride.

Mrs. A. E. Newton is president of the auxiliary and Mrs. R. Walter Hale was general convener for the affair.

WORK VOLUNTARY

All work was done voluntary by members of the club and all proceeds will assist in buying Christmas parcels for members of the regiment overseas.

Another feature of the afternoon was a display of Bren guns and Bren gun carriers, 55 calibre anti-tank rifles which shoot 300 yards and will penetrate a three-quarter inch plate of steel, two-inch mortars and three-inch mortars which can fire 15 rounds of ammunition per minute and at a distance of 1,500 yards, manned by an expert crew of 20 men.

All these weapons are being used in Italy today. The army field cooker was also shown.

During the evening the personnel of the battalion and the band was served a hot meal cooked in the field cooker, of stew, potatoes and coffee. Cooks for the afternoon were Sgt. A. Macdonald, Sgt. Cook, Edmonton garrison, and Cpl. E. Appleton, officers' cook at the Prince of Wales Armories.

Display was given under the direction of R.S.M. Charles Laubman and R.Q.M.S. Joseph Walthe.

Jefferies passed through 60 savage Nazi raids in Britain. He has stayed with his aunt, Mrs. T. J. Edmonds, 10004 79 avenue, and has worked at Aircraft Repair Ltd., while in Edmonton.

Paved Highway Across Canada Declared Need

Paving of the Trans-Canada highway from Halifax to Vancouver and greater financial aid to the provinces by the federal government for road-building as part of the post-war rehabilitation plans, was urged by R. A. Stapells, Toronto, president of the Canadian Automobile Association at a luncheon meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Motor Association held in the Macdonald Saturday.

The C.M.A. will have a large part to play in post-war rehabilitation, Mr. Stapells said and headquarters of the organization is busy drafting plans for a road-building and highway-improvement program that will give employment to many of Canada's returning servicemen, the speaker stated.

NEED FINANCIAL AID

In discussing the necessity of greater financial aid to the provinces for road building the speaker said this is of particular interest to the west, which is far behind the rest of Canada in the matter of good thoroughfares.

Mr. Stapells read a letter from the federal salvage chief thanking member clubs of the C.M.A. for their splendid assistance in the salvage campaign, in which the clubs gathered thousands of scrap tires for the rubber drive.

J. G. Butler, chairman of the Edmonton branch of the Alberta Motor Association, presided at the luncheon meeting.

Members of the board of directors present included: Reg. Godson, J. Boyd McBride, K.C., C. H. Grant, K.C., A. P. Gregory, W. A. Crawford, E. G. Smith, Dr. G. J. Hope, M. Muttart and Secretary-Manager George Barnhouse.

Wing Commander E. W. Macpherson, commanding officer at No. 4 I.T.S. was a special guest.

James S. Duncan, Toronto, president Massey-Harris Co., Ltd., and W. K. Hyslop, Racine, Wis., vice-president of the Massey-Harris Co., Ltd., arrived in Edmonton Monday to spend four days on a hunting trip. Mr. Duncan, who is accompanied by Mrs. Duncan, is returning from a sales conference held at Vancouver.

Congratulations

Robert A. Andison, clerk of Alberta Legislative Assembly, who Monday celebrated his 54th birthday. Also clerk of the provincial Executive Council, Mr. Andison has been clerk of the assembly since April, 1923. Born in Cumberland, he came to Canada in 1912, and was appointed assistant clerk of the legislature in 1914, and received the senior appointment nine years later.

Minor Damage In Two Fires

Little or no damage resulted from two fires Sunday. First of the calls was responded to at 10:05 a.m., and was to the premises occupied by James Denny, 10931 84 street, where fire had broken out between two walls, caused by an overheated gas radiant in a front room. Owner of the home is Otto Johnson, Fairbanks, Alaska. Halls 1, 4 and 5 responded.

Second alarm was sounded at 1:15 p.m., when flames were found coming from the old sewer disposal building, at 95 street and 100A avenue. The north end of the structure had been used as a barn, in which a quantity of straw had been burned. The youths, said to have been around the premises just previous to the outbreak of the fire, were stated to have denied being in the vicinity. The blaze appeared to have begun in a crate on the west side of the building. Hall No. 2 attended.

Before the Magistrate

Stories of thefts, of a suit of clothes and some other wearing apparel, a woman's purse; of autoists who drove at unreasonable rates of speed, and others who operated trucks without mufflers, lack of an argument and subsequent damage to an unoffending door, together with a complaint about begging; occupied the full time of Magistrate A. L. Millar, K.C., in city police court, Tuesday morning.

Walter E. Brown pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing a suit of clothes. He was sentenced to 30 days. The suit was sold in a second-hand store by the accused who had used another name in the transaction. Yet, he said, in court, when the clothes were taken, he was somewhere else. Anyway, the suit was three sizes too small for him, and he wanted to exchange it for a warm coat.

John Brewster and Frank G. Laberge, who pleaded guilty Oct. 5 to charges of theft of shirts, socks and a leather jacket, were sentenced to 30 days and three months, respectively.

Brewster, the records showed, had been in "one court after another ever since 1935," in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and British Columbia.

Laberge, who stated he had "lost his head", was told by the magistrate that he had lost it quite a number of times between 1936 and 1943, in the provinces of Quebec, Ontario, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Vera Hagel was observed in a departmental store one afternoon last week. She picked up one purse, set it down, and chose another, which she allegedly placed under her arm and walked out. She refused to return to the store when requested, but finally threw the purse on the sidewalk and ran away. The accused acknowledged a previous conviction for theft at Calgary. The magistrate gave her a warning, together with another chance, and fined her $15 and costs or 21 days.

Louis Wudel pleaded guilty to driving at an unreasonable speed as he entered the city on the Stony Plain road, said he was in a hurry to get to his daughter who worked in an Edmonton store. He was fined $25 and costs or 35 days.

A traffic officer told the magistrate that the accused had been paced at 35 miles an hour, and that no other vehicle had passed him.

Ashley Gawne, on a similar charge, was assessed $15 and costs or 21 days; while Leon W. Owen, charged with operating a vehicle at more than 40 miles an hour, was fined $15 and costs or 21 days. George Pashniak and William Haydok, pleading guilty to operating trucks not equipped with the proper type of mufflers, were each assessed $3 and costs or five days.

Hugh McInnis pleaded guilty to the charge of vagrancy, such charge being laid after he allegedly begged on the street. He was picked up on Sunday, about 24 hours after his release from the Fort. Accused had a job to go to at Camrose, he said, but he did not know the name of the farmer he was going to. A chance to check up was given him, as the case was remanded for one day.

* * *

Among those present was Baptiste Rain on a charge of breach of the Indian Act. He was given 21 days' lodging at Fort Saskatchewan. Alphonse Thomas was sentenced to one month's imprisonment.

John Pacquette, Sam Cardinal, and Frank Scott were fined $25 and costs or 35 days, $40 and costs or two months, and $50 and costs or two months, respectively.

U.S. Army Trying Eliminate Waste

Lt. William Stockburger, general mess officer at the U.S. Army air base is urging soldiers in the enlisted men's mess to cut down on the waste of food. This is in line with the program to conserve everything in time of war. Lt. Stockburger emphasized:

"We don't want anyone to go away hungry. On the other hand it seems wrong in these days of scarcity to see food go to waste. We want every soldier to eat all that he wants, but we also want him to eat all he takes.

"It is better for a man to take only what he thinks he can eat, and then if he is still hungry go back to the serving tables for second helpings."

Bread is the food most wasted. The men take a piece of bread with their meal, then do not eat it all. All the soldiers are being asked to combat any squandering of food.

Motor Patrols To Start When Schools Open

Motorists! Edmonton schools re-opened today. Thousands of boys and girls made tracks back to those places of learning, many of whom will forget or ignore traffic entirely. It is up to all drivers of motor and other vehicles to do the watching for all of them.

Sgt.-Maj. Alex Riddell of the traffic department, city police, warned all motorists Saturday of this fact, and asked them to exercise the greatest care in driving along streets where schools are located.

Within a few days, he added, some 80 to 90 boys, members of the schoolboard patrol, will again be at work, directing more youthful scholars across intersections near schools.

The police department, together with the sponsors of patrol movement, the Alberta Motor Association, are quite optimistic about the future work of the boys. So far, there has been no injuries to children in those places where the patrol operated in the past.

The Patrol movement has been steadily growing in importance and size, and on this continent alone, there are some 230,000 members of patrols.

Motorists are asked to be careful at all times, in passing schools, and particularly so, between the hours of 8.30 to 9 a.m.; 11:45 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.; and from 3.45 to 4:30 p.m., each school day.

Invite Guests For Chamber Meeting

Premier Ernest Manning, Major John W. Fry, Maj.-Gen. W. W. Foster, D.S.O., E.D., and Brig.-Gen. L. D. Worsham, divisional engineer, U.S.E.D., are specially invited guests to the annual dinner meeting of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce to be held on the evening of Monday, Oct. 18 in the Macdonald hotel.

Brig.-Gen. Worsham will be the guest speaker. Installation of the new board of officers will be made at the meeting and important features will be the annual reports of officers.

R. H. Settle, president of the chamber will occupy the chair at the outset of the meeting.

"WHEN I read the war news my heart keeps saying: 'Hurry! Hurry!' They can't finish it up fast enough for me.

"Some of our boys have been over there nearly four years, I know, and Jim has been gone only eighteen months. But I want him home—soon, soon!

"I just can't sit still and wait. So I've got myself a war job. And when I'm not working, I'm planning, and that keeps my mind busy all the time.

"When the war loans come along I buy all I can, and every month I figure out how much we have cashed away between us, and I write to Jim and tell him how much it is, and how we'll start out all over again after the war.

"I tell him about the little house we'll have—the shiny kitchen—the living room with a great big cosy chair—and the garden—I want hollyhocks all along the back fence—oh, I dream up the whole thing—

"I live on as little as I can, now, to help hurry things up, and so we'll have more money than we ever thought of having when he comes home. The way I feel these days I believe I could sell a lot of Victory Bonds. All I would say would be, 'I've got a husband overseas, and I want him home . . . soon.' Surely people would understand that."

THE NATIONAL WAR FINANCE COMMITTEE

Ask Rejection Of Arbitration Board's Renort

Recommendation that the majority report of the arbitration board dealing with the dispute between the City of Edmonton and the Edmonton Street Railwaymen's Association be rejected is made in a report on the finding of the board to be submitted to city council on Tuesday evening.

In their recommendation the commissioners state that "in view of the uncertainty in the provisions of section 5 of the act we believe that it would be in the interest of all concerned that for the present no change be made in connection with the bargaining representatives of the city, and recommend that the council pass a resolution addressed to the provincial government pointing out the difficulties involved in the present act and requesting that the act be amended at the next session of the legislature."

ASK REJECTION

"Until this is done we recommend that the majority decision of the board of arbitration be rejected on the ground that it further confuses conditions and is impracticable to put into operation, but suggest that as both the majority and minority reports of the board agree that all the street railway employees of the city constitute a class or category, a meeting and vote of such employees could be arranged by such employees in accordance with the terms of the act, and the council could then consider the question of dealing with the bargaining place appointed by the majority vote of such employees.

Cool, Wet Weather Features Holiday

High winds and rain marked the weather during the long holiday week-end. Sunday was dull and windy but just a trace of rain fell until 3:55 a.m. Monday when the rain began in earnest and continued through until Monday afternoon. More showers Monday evening brought the total precipitation up to .27 of an inch. The wet weather was accompanied by high winds which blew at an average velocity of 18 miles an hour and at one time reached a peak of 33 miles an hour.

The forecast of cloudy with scattered showers and cool, would indicate that the Indian summer weather of the last few weeks had come to an end.

Woman Reports Theft of Purse

Mrs. Marie Poplowski, 9235 110 avenue, told police, Saturday, that she had been making a purchase at a downtown meat market, while standing beside another young woman who was watching her. When she bent down to place her purchase in a shopping bag, she left her purse on the couter, continued Mrs. Poplowski, who said when she straightened up, the other woman had disappeared. So had her purse—containing over $150, her registration card and ration books.

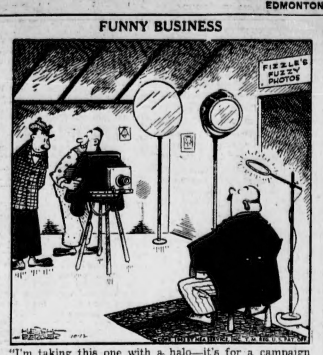

Pete Mahe, Pickardville, informed city authorities that he had gone to his rooms, Saturday, closed the door, left his pants on the floor, and went to sleep. He heard nothing while asleep, but upon waking discovered that the room had been entered and his wallet containing $25 in cash, two packing house cheques, totaling $18, his registration card, driver's license and other papers, had been stolen.

Jewry Honors City Soldiers Now Overseas

ing a victory over our enemies we will win a greater victory over ourselves, and that when this war is over we will have won a new way of life in which the weak will no longer be oppressed by the strong, and men will no longer be persecuted or made to suffer because of their race, color or creed.

"If we win that kind of victory no price we pay will be too great," Mr. Friedman concluded.

Flt.-Lt. Rabbi J. Elsen, who recently returned from a tour of Canadian camps throughout the Dominion, Labrador, Newfoundland and the Aleutian islands, said that everywhere he went that he met members of Jewish families from Edmonton. Many of the men have enlisted from here are now serving in Italy, and other theatres of war. Three of them have paid the supreme sacrifice, and two are prisoners of war.

He said that 5,000 Jews had enlisted in the R.C.A.F., adding that this number seems small when compared with the total strength of the air force, but numerically on a race or creed per capita basis it was very high. He said that the record of Jewish enlistments in Edmonton lead the Dominion.

During the service a short memorial service was held for the three members of Jewish families who were killed in action.
